CHINESE REDS DRIVEN BACK FROM GAINS IN MAJOR BLOW

CNR Chief Blows Up At Queries

OTTAWA (CP)—In an angry, table-banging outburst, Donald Gordon, Canadian National Railways president, Monday night denied suggestions of "political interference" in the demotion of Robert Pitt, former manager of the CNR's Fort Garry Hotel at Winnipeg.

After listening largely silent for more than an hour to a debate on whether the Commons railway committee should see the Pitt documents and hear Mr. Pitt himself, the CNR president finally exploded with a concussion that blew the committee right into an adjournment until today.

Before Mr. Gordon spoke his mind, the committee had heard a long speech by J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood) which suggested Mr. Pitt had been demoted to Brandon after complaints from government quarters following a visit by Prime Minister St. Laurent to the Fort Garry last summer.

Mr. Macdonnell moved for the production before the committee of correspondence in the case. His motion was ruled out of order by chairman Hughes Cleaver (L, Halton).

It was just after this ruling before adjournment time, and as committee members were wondering about the next move, that Mr. Gordon took over.

Who had asked that Mr. Pitt be heard? he asked. Mr. Macdonnell replied that Mr. Pitt had.

"I deny his right to do so," Mr. Gordon said. "He should have come to me."

"Talk about absurdity," he said, banging the table. "I never heard of anything so absurd. Who is better able to answer these questions than myself?"

"You'll get questions," promised E. D. Fulton (PC, Kamloops).

"I have been accused of political interference," shouted Mr. Gordon, chin out-thrust. "I deny it."

"Do you suggest," he asked, turning to Mr. Fulton, "that Jack Pickersgill or anyone else can scare me?"

Mr. Pickersgill is the clerk of the Privy Council and former special assistant to the prime minister, who had been described by Mr. Macdonnell as having engaged in an "outburst" in the Fort Garry lobby over the way the prime ministerial party was handled.

"Do you think you can scare me?" returned Mr. Fulton to the six-foot-four CNR president.

Turning to Mr. Macdonell, Mr. Gordon began: "You are calling me a liar . . ."

Members started shouting for order, and there was a confusion of various noises, including cries of "move we adjourn."

"I don't care if I'm in order or not," came the strident tones of Mr. Gordon over the din. "I will not be called a liar."

"This is ridiculous," Mr. Fulton finally put in.

Transport Minister Chevrier, leaning over a table toward Mr. Fulton, yelled back: "No one but you is ridiculous."

Mr. Gordon charged in again with: "I have been called a liar. No one has had the slightest influence with me."

"You will answer questions?" Mr. Fulton asked.

"For a whole hour he has not had an opportunity," Mr. Chevrier interjected.

At this point the committee broke up to meet again this morning.

Name Changed By McNaughton

KINGSTON, Ont (CP)—Lieut.-Col E. M. D. McNaughton, son of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, has given notice that he will seek to change his surname to "Leslie" in accordance with the terms of a will left by his aunt, Mrs. James Norman Stuart Leslie of Kingston.

A legal advertisement appearing in Ottawa newspapers Saturday gave notice that Edward Murray Dalziel McNaughton would apply to a County Court judge in Ottawa April 27 to change his surname.

Last August Mrs. Leslie's will left a home and $250,000 to Colonel McNaughton on condition that he change his name "legally and publicly" to Leslie.

His father is chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission and commanded Canadian troops in England during the early part of the Second World War.

When the legacy was first announced, Colonel McNaughton was on duty in Korea and at that time said: "I haven't the least idea what I'm going to do." He intimated that he would wait for at least a year before coming to a decision but added: "If the old girl (Mrs. Leslie) sincerely wanted me to continue the family name it very possibly will be a matter of personal honor with me."

Two weeks ago Colonel McNaughton's legal representative, F. J. J. Rigney, said in Kingston that the amount of succession duties was still in the process of being determined.

The will also said that if Colonel McNaughton, a bachelor, declined to change his name children of any future marriage were to be given a similar opportunity.

When interviewed in Korea after announcement of the will last August, he said "I'm quite comfortably off as it is and I don't particularly need the money. Naturally I don't like the idea of changing my name. My father is very well known and I am quite happy with it."

Three Unsure At Trial

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three prosecution witnesses failed Monday to identify Walter Pavlukoff as the slayer of bank manager Sydney Petrie during an abortive holdup attempt here August 25, 1947.

Sixteen Crown witnesses were on hand as the trial opened in Assize Court before Mr. Justice A. M. Manson and a jury of 10 men and two women.

Pavlukoff, 40, captured in a Toronto suburb in January, pleaded innocent to a charge of murder.

Robert Sowden, Petrie's assistant in the Bank of Commerce branch where the shooting occurred, was the first witness unable to identify the accused.

Sowden testified he was within two feet of the gunman.

GOOD LOOK?

"Yes, I was looking for an identification."

"Is he in the court today?"

"The man in the dock resembles him," Sowden said. "I saw the side of his face."

The trial is expected to continue for most of this week.

Mayor Boosts Socreds

Mayor Claude Harrison's support of the present provincial government was misconstrued at one of the city council's recent budget discussions—or was it?

Lauding the Rolston Formula on education, the mayor was reminded that the Social Credit government "might not be around" later this year to implement it.

"Don't worry," said the mayor, "they'll be around. They'll be back stronger than ever."

"Ah, you've seen the light, Mr. Mayor," said new Socred Ald. Waldo Skillings.

"I have my membership tickets right here," said new Socred Ald. Donald Smith. "Do you want to sign up now?"

Bennett Teases Opponents

Members of the legislature yesterday were still nervously wondering when Premier Bennett would precipitate the battle royal of the current session.

The battle will come when the premier calls for second reading of three bills setting up the government's new school-tax formula. It may end in defeat of the government.

The premier, obviously enjoying himself, tantalized the House when he said yesterday that "this session isn't going to end today, or tomorrow or the next day."

A little later he said that a House committee, instead of reporting yesterday, could have waited until "next week, or the week after or the week after that."

Stray Shot Explained

TOYKO (AP)—Police have solved the mystery of who fired a shot through a window of the United States embassy Saturday—but the solution was a little embarrassing. A policeman said his pistol discharged accidentally as he stood guard at the prime minister's residence about 300 yards from the embassy.

Pilot Rescued from Blazing Plane

An arrow points to U.S. Airman Richard D. Donovan, clad in asbestos suit, making his way to the cockpit of a shattered Corsair fighter plane to rescue the unconscious pilot. The plane was wrecked when it landed aboard the aircraft carrier Oriskany off Korea with a live bomb dangling below the wing. The pilot, trapped in the cockpit by parachute harness, was removed despite fire and exploding ammunition. —(Central Press Canadian.)

Buttle Dam Approved By House Committee

A special committee of the legislature yesterday recommended to the House that the B.C. Power Commission be allowed to dam Buttle Lake.

The committee urged that a dozen new conditions be added to the 11 imposed by Water Comptroller E. H. Tredcroft 18 months ago, when he granted the commission a conditional license, which was later appealed, to dam the lake.

Any damage caused by damming the lake could be compensated, the committee suggested, by extending Strathcona Park boundaries to include all of Buttle Lake and the Forbidden Plateau and by turning the enlarged park over to the forest service's parks division.

The committee's report was read and received by the House.

But when the House rose there was some doubt as to whether anything further would come of the report at this session. Speaker Thomas Irwin was asked to rule on a previous Speaker's decision that when a report was "read and received" it could be dealt with no further. He reserved his decision.

The special committee made its decision after 10 days of public hearings, a showing of stereo and moving pictures of the controversial lake and after two abortive attempts to fly in to the lake. It heard briefs and arguments presented by the BC Power Commission and the B.C. Natural Resources Conservation League—the two chief antagonists in the Buttle battle—and others from smaller groups and private citizens.

The committee found that the 30,000 horsepower which would be available from a Buttle storage reservoir were "urgently needed" by power-short Vancouver Island that there are no surplus power sites on the Island and that no other cheap alternative form of power generation is available.

Furthermore, the committee decided, the government knew back in 1946 when it granted the power commission its first license to build the John Hart power plant on Campbell River that eventually Buttle Lake would be needed to supply the John Hart plant.

Buttle Lake has "never been used to any appreciable extent by the general public, "chiefly because of the lack of road access to the lake, the committee said.

It admitted that Buttle is a beautiful lake and it believed the lake's beauty could be preserved, if the power commission adhered to the new conditions which it suggested. A dam on the lake, given proper access and parking facilities, could even become a tourist attraction, the committee thought.

The new conditions suggested by the committee include:

1. Power commission to be responsible for clearing blowdowns around the lakeshore for 10 years.
2. The comptroller of water rights and the forest service should consult "on all matters affecting each other's interest" in the project.
3. Within five years the forest service should designate campsites on the lake, to be improved by the commission.
4. Commission to be responsible for clearing all drift logs and other floating debris. This would be done once a year, before June 30, "until all the old accumulation is disposed of."
5. An access road to be built by the commission should be adequate to handle logging trucks.
6. All roads bridges and culverts should be up to public works standards.
7. Parking space should be provided at the lake end of the access road.
8. Commission to provide space for a small-boat landing above the dam.
9. Cleared area around the dam to be landscaped by the forest service.
10. Construction area to be left clean and neat.
11. Commission to remove all standing trees and shrubs below the 755 elevation (extreme high-water mark) and grub and cut off all stumps as close to the ground as possible, as directed by the water comptroller, "in accordance with recognized standards." (This is a revision of one of Mr. Tredcroft's conditions, which merely ordered removal of all standing timber and grubbing or cutting off of stumps close to the ground.)
12. Adds the rider "after consultation with competent consulting engineers" to Mr. Tredcroft's ruling that construction should be delayed until the Buttle damsite has been fully investigated by drilling.

The committee said damming Buttle was a "natural and logical step" in proper power development for the Island. Under the new conditions, it felt, the "over-all beauty and recreational value" of Strathcona Park "will not be irreparably affected."

The temporary loss in scenic values would be outweighed by the gain in power, it said.

The committee went outside its terms of reference to take note that the north end of Buttle Lake sticks out of Strathcona Park, that some parts of the park are unsuitable for park purposes, and that the neighboring Forbidden Plateau is also outside the park boundaries. Correcting these conditions would make up for any possible damage, it said.

They Fought Russian Jets

Crew members of the Alaska-based U.S. bomber attacked by a MiG jet over international waters, 25 miles east of Kamchatka Peninsula, are shown following their arrival back at the Eielson air force base. On a weather reconnaissance flight the long-range B-50 was intercepted by two MiGs, one of which hovered overhead while the other fired upon U.S. plane. It returned the fire but there appeared to be no damage to either craft. Russia Monday rejected a United States protest concerning the incident, and accused the American plane of violating Soviet territory on a spying mission.—(Central Press Canadian.)

Old Baldy Retaken

Heaviest Fighting in Months Rages Along Western Front

SEOUL (AP)—The Chinese Communists early today over-ran much of Old Baldy in their heaviest attack in five months, but United States 7th Division infantrymen surged back from the onslaught and rewon most of the battle-scarred Korean western front peak.

A report from the front said the 7th Division at mid-morning had retaken Old Baldy, except for one spur.

"Our boys are attacking the spur under cover of a big barrage of smoke shells," the report said.

Ethiopian and Colombian troops attached to the division joined in stemming the attack against the traditional Imjin River Valley invasion route to Seoul. Seoul is 45 miles south of Old Baldy.

The Chinese commanders Monday threw 3,500 troops at three Allied bastions guarding the ancient invasion route.

Tremendous artillery barrages rocked the flaming sector throughout the night as Communist guns roared out in fiery support of the major attack and Eighth Army artillery fought back to stem the tide.

Seventh Division defenders stood firm on T-Bone and Pork Chop Hills but recoiled for a time before the Chinese onslaught that swept in waves up Old Baldy.

While the attack was a big one, early reports indicated it was doubtful the Chinese intended more than a limited offensive.

The co-ordinated attacks started with comparatively small thrusts Monday night near Old Baldy. Within a few hours they built up to a massive blow.

It was the largest Communist attack since late last fall, when fighting raged on Sniper Ridge and Triangle Hill along the central front.

The assault on Pork Chop involved some 750 Reds. It began Monday night with a light thrust of perhaps 80 men and within 45 minutes had built up to a full-scale battalion attack. Allied defenders pulled off the position 80 minutes later.

At the same time an undetermined number of Chinese hit nearby Old Baldy.

Farther west, Allied defenders on T-Bone Hill met two attacks, one by two companies, 300 to 350 men, and the second by an undetermined number.

Both were repulsed in an hour and 45 minutes.

To the north a Communist company hit White Horse Mountain shortly after midnight. Two hours later the fight was still in progress.

The Eighth Army said South Korean troops swept into Chinese Communist trenches east of the Pukhan River before dawn and fought 40 minutes.

Better Business Plan Discussed by Group

Members of the retail merchants' group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce heard an offer yesterday from Mrs. Joan Kennedy, of the secretariat, to organize and run a better business bureau for Victoria.

Mrs Kennedy said that a better business bureau could be started with a minimum membership of 100 merchants and professional people. The cost would be a minimum of $25 a member.

Geoffrey Ellis, acting chairman, said he believed that there should be a better business bureau in Victoria acting as a protection to the public against unethical business practices.

Mrs Kennedy said that the bureau in Vancouver has widespread support from merchants, business organizations and professional men.

T. G. Denny, president of Victoria Chamber of Commerce, queried whether the work of the bureau could not be incorporated more economically into the framework of the Chamber of Commerce as he doubted if there was sufficient "shady operating" in Victoria to merit a full-time organization to look after it.

It was pointed out, however, that it was unusual for better business bureaus to be incorporated in the local chamber, one reason being that a bureau was liable to be sued.

Mr. Ellis said he hoped it would be possible to form a Victoria bureau and he intended to appoint a committee to look into the possibilities.

Snow Blankets North Prairies

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) Northern Saskatchewan is battling eight-foot-deep snowdrifts after a March Prairie blizzard.

The storm left more than 16 inches of snow at some points in the Prince Albert-Battleford-Saskatoon triangle and 45-mile-an-hour winds piled it into eight-foot walls. Roads were blocked and some rural communities isolated.

The snow started late Thursday in southwestern Alberta. The storm picked up speed as it moved northeast across the Prairies Monday night it was blowing itself out over the wild bush country of northwestern Ontario.

In the Prince Albert area, it was the worst snowstorm since March 16, 1951. A milk shortage threatened as huge drifts prevented farmers from making deliveries.

Fuel dealers were flooded with orders but deliveries could not be made because of snow-blocked lanes. Rural mail carriers were unable to get to the city to pick up deliveries. Country schools were closed.

Subversion Claimed

UNITED NATIONS, NY (AP) The United States and Czechoslovakia clashed bitterly Monday over Communist charges of U.S. subversion against Iron Curtain countries.

Czechoslovakia's foreign minister, Vaclav David, attacked the U.S. on a long list of counts. He charged in the UN political committee that Washington, through the Mutual Security Act, is prompting subversion and espionage in Communist countries, arming traitors and trying to upset the present governments.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. delegate, replied that the Communist subversion of the Czechoslovak democratic state in 1948 was one of the "most glaring examples of subversion in modern times."

Queen Mary Improves

LONDON (AP) Physicians said ailing Queen Mary had a comfortable day Monday and there are signs she is out of any immediate danger.

The 85-year-old Queen has been ill with gastric trouble for three weeks.

Winters Given Work

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP) — Federal Resources Minister Winters visited his old school, Lunenburg Academy, and wound up filling in for two absent teachers. He lectured Grade 10 on origins of the French Revolution and took a Grade 12 class in physics, in which he is expert.

McNaughton Alters Name

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) Lieut.-Col. E. M. D. McNaughton, son of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, has given notice that he will seek to change his surname to "Leslie" in accordance with the terms of a will left by his aunt, Mrs. James Norman Stuart Leslie of Kingston.

Last August Mrs. Leslie's will left a home and $250,000 to Colonel McNaughton on condition that he change his name "legally and publicly" to Leslie.

He added that the name of Leslie "is a respected name. My uncle and great-uncle commanded this regiment in the name of Leslie."

Cheaper Meals Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian train travelers soon may be able to buy cheaper meals, Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, indicated Monday.

He told the Commons railway committee the CNR is experimenting to try to cut down the price of eating aboard trains.

One move is an attempt to provide a "packaged" meal to appeal to coach passengers. The company is also getting ready to set up lunch counters and dinettes.

Mr. Gordon told of the CNR's plans after Leslie Mutch (L, Winnipeg South) said passengers who must eat aboard trains are being "taken for an increasingly rough ride."

Analyzing a few meals he had eaten on a recent trip, Mr. Mutch said a $1.85 dinner "special" of corned beef has contained about 20 cents worth of meat, no soup. On a lettuce salad, he concluded the CNR ran about 22 cents worth of lettuce into $5 worth at the table end.

Mr. Gordon said the average loss to the company on a meal is 52 cents.

House Committee Favors Buttle Dam

Stiff New Conditions Urged To Assure Saving of Beauty

A special committee of the legislature yesterday recommended to the House that the B.C. Power Commission be allowed to dam Buttle Lake.

The committee urged that a dozen new conditions be added to the 11 imposed by Water Comptroller E. H. Tredcroft 18 months ago, when he granted the commission a conditional license, which was later appealed, to dam the lake.

Any damage caused by damming the lake could be compensated, the committee suggested, by extending Strathcona Park boundaries to include all of Buttle Lake and the Forbidden Plateau and by turning the enlarged park over to the forest service's parks division.

The committee's report was read and received by the House.

But when the House rose there was some doubt as to whether anything further would come of the report at this session. Speaker Thomas Irwin was asked to rule on a previous Speaker's decision that when a report was "read and received" it could be dealt with no further. He reserved his decision.

The special committee made its decision after 10 days of public hearings, a showing of stereo and moving pictures of the controversial lake and after two abortive attempts to fly in to the lake. It heard briefs and arguments presented by the B.C. Power Commission and the B.C. Natural Resources Conservation League — the two chief antagonists in the Buttle battle — and others from smaller groups and private citizens.

The committee found that the 30,000 horsepower which would be available from a Buttle storage reservoir were "urgently needed" by power-short Vancouver Island, that there are no surplus power sites on the Island and that no other cheap alternative form of power generation is available.

Furthermore, the committee decided, the government knew back in 1946 when it granted the power commission its first license to build the John Hart power plant on Campbell River that eventually Buttle Lake would be needed to supply the John Hart plant.

Buttle Lake has "never been used to any appreciable extent by the general public, chiefly because of the lack of road access to the lake, the committee said.

It admitted that Buttle is a beautiful lake and it believed the lake's beauty could be preserved, if the power commission adhered to the new conditions which it suggested. A dam on the lake, given proper access and parking facilities, could even become a tourist attraction, the committee thought.

The new conditions suggested by the committee include:

1. Power commission to be responsible for clearing blowdowns around the lakeshore for 10 years.

2. The comptroller of water rights and the forest service should consult "on all matters affecting each other's interest" in the project.

3. Within five years the forest service should designate camp sites on the lake, to be improved by the commission.

4. Commission to be responsible for clearing all drift logs and other floating debris. This would be done once a year before June 30, "until all the old accumulation is disposed of."

5. An access road to be built by the commission should be adequate to handle logging trucks.

6. All roads, bridges and culverts should be up to public works standards.

7. Parking space should be provided at the lake end of the access road.

8. Commission to provide space for a small-boat landing above the dam.

9. Cleared area around the dam to be landscaped by the forest service.

10. Construction area to be left clean and neat.

11. Commission to remove all standing trees and shrubs below the 755 elevation (extreme high-water mark), and grub and cut off all stumps as close to the ground as possible as directed by the water comptroller, "in accordance with recognized standards." (This is a revision of one of Mr. Tredcroft's conditions, which merely ordered removal of all standing timber and grubbing or cutting off of stumps close to the ground.)

12. Adds the rider "after consultation with competent consulting engineers" to Mr. Tredcroft's ruling that construction should be delayed until the Buttle damsite has been fully investigated by drilling.

The committee said damming Buttle was a "natural and logical step" in proper power development for the Island. Under the new conditions, it felt, the "over-all beauty and recreational value" of Strathcona Park "will not be irreparably affected."

The temporary loss in scenic values would be outweighed by the gain in power, it said.

The committee went outside its terms of reference to take note that the north end of Buttle Lake sticks out of Strathcona Park, that some parts of the park are unsuitable for park purposes, and that the neighboring Forbidden Plateau is also outside the park boundaries. Correcting these conditions would make up for any possible damage, it said.

Mayor Drops Hint?

Mayor Claude Harrison's support of the present provincial government was misconstrued at one of the city council's recent budget discussions — or was it?

Lauding the Rolston Formula on education, the mayor was reminded that the Social Credit government "might not be around" later this year to implement it.

"Don't worry," said the mayor, "they'll be around. They'll be back stronger than ever."

"Ah, you've seen the light, Mr. Mayor," said new Socred Ald. Waldo Skillings.

"I have my membership tickets right here," said new Socred Ald. Donald Smith. "Do you want to sign up now?"

Bennett Teases Opponents

Members of the legislature yesterday were still nervously wondering when Premier Bennett would precipitate the battle royal of the current session.

The battle will come when the premier calls for second reading of three bills setting up the government's new school-tax formula. It may end in defeat of the government.

The premier, obviously enjoying himself, tantalized the House when he said yesterday that "this session isn't going to end today, or tomorrow or the next day."

A little later he said that a House committee, instead of reporting yesterday, could have waited until "next week, or the week after or the week after that."

The premier's private target date for prorogation is Thursday, April 2 — barring an upset. He has given no indication when he intends to call the controversial school bills.

UBC Plans Exchange With Russia

VANCOUVER (CP). — University of British Columbia students are willing to put up the money to bring a Russian exchange student here to study for one year.

A majority of students who voted in a referendum on the plan approved addition of 20 cents in the fees of each student to pay for the exchange, in which a UBC student would study at a Russian university.

The exchange plan had threatened to break up the National Federation of Canadian University Students. At the last NFCUS conference, Quebec universities said they would withdraw from the federation if the plan were approved. The federation decided to let individual colleges work out their own plans.

Next problem: To find a Russian student who can come to Canada and a Russian university which will take a UBC student.

Reserve Sailors Coronation-Bound

There's travel and adventure in store for these Victoria naval reservists who have received word of their selection to attend the Coronation. All attached to HMCS Malahat, they will leave for England Thursday in the destroyer Sioux. Packing their gear and making final preparations for their long trip are, left to right, AB Leslie E. Stevens, 1833 Foul Bay Road; OS Robert Milke, and his brother, OS Norman Milke, both of 170 Crease Avenue. Also to attend the Coronation from Malahat will be OS Robert Faulkes, who will travel in the cruiser Ontario. Official representative of the local naval division will be LS Derrick Wakeford. —(Colonist photo.)

Watch for Signs In Buying Plants

BY M. V. CHESTNUT
F.R.S.C.

When choosing young tomato plants to set out in your garden, it is best to look for stocky, short-jointed specimens [illegible] and with no sign of weakening toward the tip.

They should have a good mass of fibrous roots, indicating that they have been given plenty of elbow room while in the seedling stage.

Tall, skinny plants with a yellowish cast to the foliage have been kept too long in the greenhouse, and plants with a blue tinge in the leaves have received a set-back by being hardened off too suddenly. Tomato plants with long stretches of bare stem between the leaves are not worth buying.

The cauliflower is a tricky subject to buy. Avoid large plants, no matter how sturdy and healthy they may look. In nine cases out of 10, when such plants are set out in the open garden, they will promptly form scrubby little cauliflowers that are useless.

SMALL PLANTS

Look for small plants with three or four leaves of a good green color. There is all the difference in the world in the performance of such a plant compared with one bearing tiny, bluish, pinched-looking leaves.

It is well to take a look at the roots, too, and any that appear distorted or malformed should be avoided like the plague, for this may mean the dreaded club-root disease, which would infect your garden plot for years to come.

With summer cabbages a good-sized plant is desirable providing that it is sturdy and has large leaves with not too prominent veins.

The cabbage to be avoided is one with a long, bare stem. I have seen some offered with stems a foot long. It is a waste of money to buy these specimens. As with cauliflowers, the roots should be examined for signs of club-root disease.

The best and most vigorous strains of brussels sprouts have some red cabbage "blood" in their ancestry.

This shows up in the leaves not very prominently, but most [illegible] most dependable plants will also have large, round leaves with short leaf stalks, and the whole plant should be short-jointed and stocky.

As the Brussels sprout is a close relative of the cabbage and cauliflower, again it is necessary to have a look at the roots for the telltale, scabby swellings characteristic of club root.

With marrows, squash, and cucumber plants the best specimens are those with a succulent stem and large, green leaves. If the stems are hard and woody, or the leaves yellowish, it is not very likely that the plants will perform well. These plants are rather subject to a rot disease that attacks the stem at soil level. Any plants showing a suspicious discoloration at this point should be avoided.

Guests Help Out As Record Made

About 300 special guests "worked" for the Victoria Symphony Orchestra Sunday night at a recording session for the coming CBC network broadcast.

Invited to be present for the history-making occasion, the listeners earned their admission by acting as a human sounding board, stuffing for the empty [illegible]

The audience received a double treat: they heard a "buckshee" concert by the orchestra and had the opportunity to watch conductor Hans Gruber putting the group over the rehearsal jumps before the recording was made.

A perfectionist, Mr. Gruber made the orchestra repeat passages several times until he was satisfied. The actual recording performance of Brahms' "Academic Overture" was superb.

OFFICIAL AMAZED

Judging from Mr. Gruber's reaction to the play-backs, he was not entirely satisfied with one of the movements of the six-part Handel "Water Music."

Generally speaking, the performance was excellent and moved one CBC official present for the recording session to express amazement at the maturity and quality of the orchestra.

The audience, composed mainly of symphony directors, guarantors and committees with their wives and husbands, experienced a feeling of pride when they heard the recordings.

The CBC broadcast won't be [illegible] of August. The program featuring the Victoria orchestra will be the second to last in a 13-week series beginning May this year.

Italy Trims Defense Costs

ROME (Reuters)—Italy will trim defense spending by 6 per cent this year, though the figure will still represent 27 per cent of the budget, the government disclosed Monday.

The government submitted to parliament a defense budget totaling 488,870,000,000 lire ($718,192,000) for 1953-54. This is about 6 per cent less than the defense budget for the current year ending June 30.

Capt. Tisdall To Become Commodore Upon Assuming Halifax Appointment

Capt. Ernest Patrick Tisdall, CD, RCN, of Duncan, will be promoted to the rank of commodore when he assumes his duties as commodore RCN barracks at Halifax March 25.

An officer with 30 years' experience in the Royal Canadian Navy, Capt. Tisdall has commanded the cruiser HMCS Ontario for the past 18 months.

Born in Newchwang, North China, in 1906, he obtained his early education in England and in 1918 came to this city where he attended University School, and later the Royal Naval College of Canada at Esquimalt.

In 1924 he joined the Royal Navy as a cadet, serving in various RN ships and establishments until 1933, except for a two-year period in the destroyer HMCS Vancouver. In 1934 he became gunnery officer at Stadacona, Halifax naval establishment.

He served in the destroyer Saguenay as flotilla gunnery officer, in the Vancouver as first lieutenant and flotilla gunnery officer, and commanded the Royal Guard in this city for King George VI during the 1939 royal visit.

Capt. Tisdall commanded the destroyer HMCS Skeena after outbreak of the last war and in 1940 went ashore as executive officer at HMCS Stadacona. Two years later he was appointed in Ottawa as director of naval training.

The veteran naval officer has held numerous appointments within the RCN, including those as superintendent of the naval armament depot at Dartmouth, executive officer in HMCS Ontario, executive officer in HMCS Naden, director general of naval ordnance, director of weapons and tactics. He was promoted to the rank of captain January 1, 1948, and in August of 1951 returned to Ontario as her commanding officer.

Britain Reduces Barriers to Trade

LONDON (Reuters) Britain Monday opened the door to more liberal trade with Western Europe by slashing import restrictions on a wide range of foodstuffs and manufactures.

In addition, the government increased the travel allowance of British tourists on the Continent to £40 from £25 yearly.

Prime Minister Churchill's government tightened the import and travel allowance re- [illegible] office in October 1951, in order to reduce Britain's adverse trade balance.

Continental countries threatened to slash imports of British goods unless Britain reversed its restrictive trade policies.

The import changes will raise from 44 to 58 per cent the amount of goods which can be freely imported by private traders from Western Europe. This compares with about 90 per cent before the 1951 cuts.

Goods on which import restrictions have been lifted completely include cheese, textile yarns, gloves, footwear, carpets, plates, sheet glass and cork products.

Moscow Radio Reverses Peace Line

LONDON (AP) The Moscow radio suddenly switched off its peace propaganda Monday night and lashed out on the old line, declaring the projected Western European army is an instrument of American imperialists.

Broadcasting in German, Moscow aimed this time for an audience in West Germany whose Bundestag (lower house of parliament) has just ratified the army pact treaty.

Shells Lacking for Defense General Tells U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) Gen. James Van Fleet has told United States senators that the Eighth Army hasn't enough ammunition to meet a Communist offensive in Korea.

General Van Fleet gave his testimony to the Senate armed services committee March 5, 6 and 10. Most of it was kept secret until Sunday when the group decided the public should have the full story.

The former Eighth Army commander said he understood the situation is better now than it was when he left Korea last month. But he emphasized he is in direct disagreement with his defense department superiors in Washington on how much ammunition the army should shoot and what the army's mission in Korea should be.

Senators used such words in the record as "tragic," "shocking" and "unbelievable" as General Van Fleet told them the troops in Korea "have to be in trouble in order to 'shoot' heavy weapons and then they have only enough supplies for "merely a protective action to save themselves."

He said he had been forced to issue "no shoot" orders to his gunners in order to hoard dwindling supplies and at one time in May, 1951, there wasn't a shell left in his supply dumps, only shells at the gun pits.

General Van Fleet said Gen. Mark W. Clark, supreme commander of the Far Eastern forces, told him last November the United Nations forces had to cut down their rate of fire.

Victory can be achieved in Korea if the army is "given the means" which would mean more ammunition and more manpower, General Van Fleet said.

In June, 1951, he said, the Allied army had the Reds retreating "in a panic" and "I was crying" to be turned loose. He thought at that time he could have pursued the enemy, captured 200,000 to 300,000 prisoners and "all his heavy equipment." But he added he was ordered to stop as the truce talks began.

Jet Airliners Still Wanted

VANCOUVER (CP) Canadian Pacific Airlines has not changed plans for eventual use of jet airliners on the southern leg of its Auckland, N.Z., to Vancouver route, a spokesman said here Monday.

The airline will use four-engined DC-6 airliners on the Pacific service until British Comets are available.

Oddities

LONDON (BUP) — Laslo Szilvassy, a stateless artist, last month walked into the dignified Tate Gallery and smashed a sculpture which had won first prize in a world-wide contest. It was an abstract job composed of wire and stone. And it was entitled "An Unknown Political Prisoner."

In court Monday Szilvassy said he had been a political prisoner himself and he resented the idea of reducing prisoners to "a scrap of metal." He said he would smash the statue again if it were rebuilt.

MANCHESTER (CP)—Conductor Sir John Barbirolli stopped the music Sunday night when his audience started applauding too soon.

He turned on the spectators, furiously waving his baton, and shouted: "Shut up! Shut up!"

He then took the Halle orchestra back over the final four bars which the applause had drowned out.

China Cuts Building Aims; May Lack Russian Help

HONG KONG (AP) — There are mounting indications that Communist China is not getting all she wants from Russia for Mao Tse-tung's ambitious five-year plan of industrialization, and has been forced to cut back the program by 30 per cent.

Almost hidden in the ocean of Peiping news of Stalin's death and the new Soviet government was an announcement that a committee on financial and economic affairs had called a conference. The conference was to discuss the curtailment of this year's building and construction plans."

Vice-chairman Chia Tuo-fu told the committee that China lacked the material and trained working force to carry out the building plans.

After the lavish propaganda for the five-year plan, launched January 1, only two reasons appear for this abrupt change: either the Chinese Communist planners realized they had over-planned, or they were counting on capital goods and other help from Russia which were turned down.

It would explain why China's premier and foreign minister, Chou En-lai, and 18 economic, military and diplomatic figures from Peiping were sent to Moscow for Stalin's funeral and are still there.

The make-up of the delegation suggests it went more to talk business than to mourn.

Railways Squeezed, Says Gordon

OTTAWA (CP) Rising costs followed by successive freight rate increases are forcing the railways to price themselves out of some business, Donald Gordon, Canadian National Railways president, said Monday.

Mr. Gordon, making his annual appearance before the Commons railway committee, said the combination of sharpening competition and the necessity for higher rail revenues is creating a problem for the railways. Highway competition is the stiffest.

"We are in a dilemma and it is getting increasingly worse," he said.

"With each freight rate award the area in which we can get an effective increase is narrowing, and we are pricing ourselves out of the market steadily."

Asked by J. M. Macdonnell (PC Toronto Greenwood) how the CNR could "get along" with a lower level of freight rates than the United States despite thinner rail traffic in this country, the CNR president replied:

"The answer is that we are not getting along."

African Upheld By Court

BLOEMFONTEIN (Reuters) The highest appeal court in South Africa Monday upheld the acquittal of an African laborer who defied Prime Minister Daniel Malan's racial segregation laws by using a railway station waiting room reserved for whites.

Dismissing an appeal by the Cape Province attorney-general against George Lusu's acquittal, the court also ruled that Africans and other non-Europeans should have "substantially the same" waiting room facilities as whites.

When he was brought to trial a Capetown magistrate acquitted him on grounds that the waiting room for non-Europeans was inferior to that reserved for Europeans.

Anti-Red Plot Brewing for Albania

PARIS (AP)—From a crude peasant home in Yugoslavia, a former mathematics teacher who boasts the support of 50,000 guerrillas is reported to be plotting revolution against the Moscow-directed Communist government of Albania.

Apostol Tsaneft, an Albanian Communist, says his followers inside Albania now control one-third of the country and he [illegible] plete control.

News of Tsaneft's plans was sent to the newspaper Paris Presse by its correspondent Jean Francois Devay. He said he had met the partisan leader in Yugoslavia, and reported that Tsaneft's organization in Yugoslavia operates with the full knowledge of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito.

"We lack modern weapons," Devay quoted Tsaneft as saying. "Of course we have rifles, lots of rifles and machine guns. But they are generally old equipment that Italian troops hid before surrendering in the last war and which we found. We have also taken some arms from the bodies of Albanian troops.

"All that doesn't make much, but don't be worried. That won't stop us from winning. Even when our peasants only have their hatchets, they will march on Tirana (the capital) when the day comes."

...THE FILTER TIP
– constant protection for your throat

WHAT THE FILTER TIP DOES
It stops particles of tobacco getting into the throat.
It is the common-sense method of preventing smoker's throat because it effectively retains irritants.
It guards physical fitness.
It brings out the flavour and makes the smoke delightfully sweet and cool.

When the flame is put to your du Maurier cigarette, the miracle of the filter-tip begins. For the choicest tobacco cannot be enjoyed until that tobacco is burned. And in that burning will not some harshness, some impurity, be born to mar the natural flavour? It will—but from a du Maurier it will not pass your lips. The du Maurier filter-tip is there on duty, custodian of perfect enjoyment, guardian of luxury.

Trans-Canada Highway

ACTION by the three western provinces to spur the Dominion to a more integrated program of defense and other road construction for the good of the country may be a step in the right direction if the primary requirement of all—one clear highway across Canada—is kept well in the forefront. It remains anomalous in a mechanized, motorized age that the Trans-Canada Highway, more than 10 years under construction now, is not yet completed; that there are large gaps in it, and that in some extensive areas it cannot be said to exist at all. Nor does this seem to have been the fault of the provinces by any manner of means.

British Columbia public works engineers predicted in advance that the great Alaska Highway, while it could well be and was built, would prove uneconomic in its general operation in view of the vast distances involved through totally uninhabited territory. Although the Trans-Canada Highway, as designed from coast to coast, would be longer again, the greatest proportion of its course would pass through the settled parts of Canada and become in time the town-to-town link that private and commercial vehicles stand in need of. Such a highway would be a main trunk route through the land, and until it is brought into existence on the ground without gaps or flaws that need will go unfilled.

British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan in making common cause on the issue of defense and secondary roads with national help are taking a progressive attitude. There is no doubt that the Dominion both could and should do more not only to give a lead in this connection, but also to assist the provinces as only it can. Defense routes and the secondary roads connecting them, however, are not arterial connections in the same sense that a Trans-Canada Highway would be. British Columbia, for instance, might profit much from a direct link with the Alaska Highway well this side of the mountains, but that would not compare in economic effect with a completed national highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

If the three western provinces will put the Trans-Canada Highway at the head of their list and keep that project before Ottawa as a first and a must on any national highway program, they will greatly strengthen their position when they come to meet federal officials at the suggested conference later in the spring.

Wage Loss $12,000,000

STATISTICS contained in the annual report of the British Columbia labor relations board for 1952 convey some idea of what industrial strikes cost this province. The loss of working time through organized strikes is expressed in terms of man-days, and the report shows that last year 36 strikes caused a loss of 1,234,120 days' wages to the 46,806 workers involved. The total of time lost as a result of strikes was the second highest in British Columbia's history, being only slightly lower than that of 1946. In both years prolonged strikes in the lumber industry were mainly responsible for the high totals.

Ten dollars a day probably would be a conservative estimate of the average rate of pay of those idled by work stoppages last year, so that in terms of cash those 36 strikes must have caused losses of wages in excess of $12,000,000. No attempt has been made to compute the loss of production suffered by the 381 employers whose plants were struck, but it can reasonably be assumed to have been considerably higher than the loss of wages.

Little if any of this loss is recoverable by either side. In the case of many of the strikers, especially the family men, the loss of earnings must have been a serious blow, no matter what if anything they may have gained ultimately through negotiations between management and unions while they spent their days away from work. This kind of loss also affects the economy of all the communities in which extensive and prolonged strikes occur, sometimes reducing normal trade to a mere trickle.

It is often said that in a strike everybody loses. These official figures certainly show that financial loss through work stoppages in industry is not one-sided, when it means an average loss of more than $250 in a single year to each of 46,800 wage earners.

In Praise of Books

ALTHOUGH publishers' jackets may sometimes seem to deny it the pursuit of literature is a quiet affair compared, say, with the ballyhoo associated with the entertainment world. Real books have to make their way in the face of stiff competition, what with radio, television, sports, recreation and the hundred and one interests thrown up by the modern age. The solitude required for reading is nowadays not always easy to find.

Even in a calmer age, however, a beat of the publicity drum was often needed. Simply through lack of attention being drawn to his work many an author languished in neglect until he had passed from the living scene or until the response was too late to be of much help to him. The thesis that talent will out is no doubt a good one, but a favorable word at the right moment is a wonderful help nevertheless. This applies in every endeavor and the realm of authorship is no exception.

Last week in Canada was Book Week. The idea was not so much to induce readers to walk forthwith into a book shop and buy a Canadian book, as to remind them that Canadians really do write worthwhile things. Some people may not quite recognize this but it is a fact just the same. A book is a book and it must stand on its own merit, yet many a reader has grown accustomed to buying an English book or an American book mainly because it is English or American and because of some subconscious feeling that if it is a Canadian book it cannot be up to scratch. Actually that impression is long since mistaken. Canadian authors are coming more and more to the fore and as of today many fine works stand to their credit.

Book week had another purpose, simply that of diverting the interest of people towards reading in general. Reading maketh a full man, as has been well said, and perhaps because of the very tumultuous nature of modern living books also provide an antidote that is precious to human weal. The home without a bookshelf is poor even if filled with luxury and convenience. There are so many desirable books on the market, and public libraries exist to supplement the market place, that no person need go without the rich stimulus and content that good books bring. In essence that was the message of book week across the land.

DUTCH COSTUMES

Sir,—With regard to the photo of the Icecapers Ballet in Saturday's newspaper I should very much like to point out that the dresses do not have the slightest similarity with one of the more than 20 various colorful and often costly costumes we are so proud of. The bonnets are a ridiculous caricature of the bonnets they wear in Volendam, and it is really injurious to call these fancy dresses "Dutch costumes."

HEALTH INSURANCE

Sir: We have heard so much of the grief of hospital insurance, surely it would be refreshing to hear a little of the other side of the picture. When one is fit one can face up to the world. It is sickness that gets one down. That is the point at which the B.C.H.I.S. and M.S.A. take one over literally body and soul.

Perhaps one requires an operation. Surgical and medical skill at its highest pitch is lavished upon one. Anaesthetics are no more to be dreaded. No longer is one stifled and nauseated by ether. Instead they have some trick which peps you up so much that you gaily look forward to a new experience. But you are cheated for the next thing you discover is that all was finished hours ago. By that time you are lethargic and lazily happy to realize all is well. From now on you live in a magic world. You have only to wish for anything and it is done. You are nursed back to strength with every attention and excellent food. Have you a worry? Your spiritual counsellor makes time to call on you every day with divine comfort.

This is all a great service. Naturally it would be nicer if it cost less, but who achieves this with equal service? In Great Britain much of the burden is carried by the income tax. Let us be thankful for what we have.

This is perhaps the only chink in Mr. George I. Warren's armor. He hasn't yet told the world what a wonderful place Victoria is for being ill in.

BEACON HILL PARK

Sir: Must we take in consideration the fact that Beacon Hill Park is a tourist attraction as in whether we can afford the upkeep? It is the main park of Victoria and as such should be cared for and kept beautiful for our own people. Any comparison with Butchart's Gardens I find quite ridiculous. The expense and inconvenience of transportation thereto excludes most people from making frequent trips, if any.

I take time almost every day, weather permitting, if only for half an hour, to walk with my little boy to visit the birds and the flowers at Beacon Hill. We meet countless mothers with young children and many elderly people. The children are enjoying themselves thoroughly, and in a different way, so are the grown-ups.

I venture one suggestion, that some of the Sunday afternoon concerts perhaps could be of a voluntary nature by choral groups (of which we have many in our city). As a taxpayer I do not feel that we are spending too much for so much beauty and usefulness.

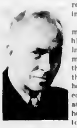
Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR



I WROTE what follows a long time ago, and so it might strike some of you as a bit familiar, but I've a reason for repeating myself.

You see, once more I stood behind them, gawking, and it made me think twice if they knew I was there they didn't betray the knowledge by so much as a flick of the head. They were too busy to bother with supernumeries.

Who? Our telephone girls.

Often I've wondered about hello girls, especially our own. There they sit, day after day, creatures of poise and personality, wholly at ease amid enough thingamajigs to drive a man distrait.

How they cope with them is wholly beyond yours truly.

All I could see as I snooped over their shoulders were two pairs of hands doing amazing tricks with countless switches, jackcords and plugs. Little lights went on and off in bewildering succession until I was dazed.

Were the girls? Not a bit; their aplomb was admirable.

Cool, comely, polite, never at a loss, they answered every call with a cheerful hullo.

* * *

Well, no, not exactly.

Away back in the early 80's an august body of international electricians debated solemnly in Paris as to what word should be used by the person answering the telephone. Finally it was decided to adopt hello or hullo for universal use.

That was before hello girls were invented, and they don't say hello or hullo. (Incidentally, if you say hullo, say it gently for as I've noted it has respected and weighy parentage).

Our girls say "Colonist" and their chair companions say "Times"; or all of them might say "Exchange" if it's an inside call.

And how they say these words—5,000 times a day at least, to the accompaniment of deft and flashing hands. And without a trace of monotony or ill pleasure.

Complaints, questions, monologues or curt demands, it's all the same to them.

* * *

Even when a quiz program is on the air and every light on the board winks simultaneously. It's then you see the hello girls at their speedy best, doubling as a brain trust for desperate radio listeners.

I don't suppose people ever give a thought to telephone girls anywhere; they take for granted the calm, courteous, impersonal voice that greets them from the other end of the line.

I did too, until the first day when, as I say, I snooped behind our girls' backs.

They didn't let me down.

Not once did their composure fade. As fast as the calls came in, and sometimes it's a veritable cascade they handle, as fast were they disposed of. Never a sign of strain or stress—they were on top of the job all the time.

They made me envious.

And if you think it's easy to sit for hours on end as the centrepiece of a telephone system—well, your thinking's gone askew. This writer, for one, would be paralyzed were he given their assignment.

Another salute, then, to all hello girls. They deserve it.

Reports from Ottawa

SENATOR Hayes Doone's committee which has been investigating dirty books and magazines for the last year will soon end its hearings and prepare its report.

What it may recommend is a double-barreled censorship plan involving both federal and provincial authorities. Committee members realize that the province's exclusive jurisdiction over civil rights, which is guaranteed by the British North America Act, rules out federal censorship of Canadian publications. That would have to be left to the provinces.

They also believe, however, that federal censorship of imported publications, which is now carried out by the customs department, should be continued. They think the present "hit-or-miss" system could be improved by setting up a federal board of censors. In addition to doing a more thorough job of censoring imported publications, such a board could also set a standard for the guidance of provincial censorship boards.

At the same time, some of the senators strongly suspect their report will gather a lot of dust. They think the opposition of "a vocal minority" in government censorship would make it politically impractical for the cabinet to act on such a recommendation.

PRIME Minister St. Laurent, who is as proud as any Canadian of this country's past achievements, present development and shining future, took keen delight the other day in quoting quite another opinion of Canada.

The Truth, published in London, Eng., in 1881, said Canada is "a country frost-bound for seven or eight months of the year. British Columbia is a barren, cold mountain country that is not worth keeping, about as forbidding a country as any of the face of the earth.

"The much-touted Manitoba settlement (will not) . . . hold out many years. The people cannot stand the coldness of the winters. Men and cattle are frozen to death (or) maimed for life by frost bites.

"The country as a whole is poor and crushed with debt. The province and city of Quebec are both notoriously bankrupt. In the end the Dominion will have to go into liquidation. When the load gets too heavy, Ontario is pretty certain to go over to the States. When the day comes the Dominion will disappear.

"This Dominion is, in short, a fraud all through and is destined to burst up like any other fraud," concluded The Truth.

WILLIAM J. Ward, the Grit back bencher who has sat in the Commons for Dauphin, Man., on and off since 1921, has helped balance the criticism which the Tories and socialists heap on Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

"Every farmer and every stock raiser in Canada should go down on his knees and thank God we have a Jimmy Gardiner," Ward told the Commons.

Why? Because, says Mr. Ward, "if it had not been for the four-way meat deal he made involving Britain, New Zealand, United States and Canada, beef in Canada might have dropped to 10 cents a pound. That has been avoided through the ingenuity of our good minister of agriculture, who is always on the job, always on top of the responsibility that is given to him in his department."

No one seems to have told Ward that it wasn't Gardiner's idea at all. The man who pulled that deal out of his hat was the then clerk of the Privy Council and the present high commissioner to Britain, Norman Robertson.

Tubs and TV

(From The Christian Science Monitor)

CHICAGO is in hot water. Well, not exactly. But it has made a big splash with a small but astounding item of news.

There are, it appears, more television sets than bathtubs in the Windy City today. To be precise, there are something like 100,000 more.

We have been aware for a long time that a good many TV programs needed cleaning up. Now it appears that some TV fans may need the same thing. We doubt that Chicago is unique in this respect—only more candid than some other communities, perhaps. But as TV viewers who would willingly see quite a few popular programs go down the drain, we wonder.

What has become of the old American tradition that a civilization is to be judged by its plumbing? We would willingly see a somewhat higher test replace this somewhat inadequate one. But simply substituting TV for tubs as the criterion of high living—wouldn't this be throwing out the baby with the bath water?

Fun, Fact and Fiction

The US army is said to be cool towards a new type automatic pistol—which is understandable, since it hasn't even caught up with the western six-shooter which fires 37 times.

"Mamma, Jerry found a bedbug."

Under the Clock

By RAY BAINES

City Hall Reporter

AFTER two days of deliberation last week, city council managed to cut about $20,000, or .4 mills from the 1953 budget of $6,517,830.

It's been an uphill battle all the way. The section considered was the toughest one—the ordinary departmental expen- [illegible] all cuts made passed on split votes of 6-4, 7-3 or 8-2, indicating sharp divisions of opinion on what to cut and what to leave.

The provisional rate of 58.5 mills is two mills more than last year's operating rate. It will be necessary to reduce the budget by $107,000 in all to get the rate down to the 1952 level. It will be necessary to reduce it by $187,000 to get the rate down to 55, the level many aldermen are aiming for.

If the rate is brought down to 55 mills, this will not necessarily mean taxes will be reduced.

Because of the city-wide "equalization" program last year, taxable assessments have gone up $3,835,388.

A home whose assessment was $5,000 in 1952 and is now $6,000 would pay higher taxes unless the tax rate is considerably less than last year. In other words, what property owners gain on a lower tax rate they may lose on a higher assessment.

This is one of the reasons council will not be content to get the rate down just to that of last year.

* * *

To get back to the council's method of considering the budget.

Many people believe a council should consider departmental subtotals only. If they are not satisfied with the totals they should simply say: "Take $10,000 from this." The department head would be left the job of deciding how or where it will come off.

City council is following another method. The entire budget is being considered seriatim. Every last dollar is queried, department heads are usually put on the carpet and cuts are made $400 to $500 at a time.

In some cases, council spends more time debating $500 items in the budget than they did over the whole $429,825 police department budget. Critics say this may be understandable, and the close scrutiny is laudable, but should there not be a broader policy on reductions? This may be easier said than done.

One of the problems is that experienced by any democratic body—a simple difference in senses of value and divergence of interests.

One alderman may consider it a crime to cut the $6,000 budget for playground supervision in half, eliminate band concerts in the park, and cut $600 from grants to 150 elderly people in a lawn bowling club.

Don't take it from the old and the young, he might say, take it from those in between who can make their own amusement. Take it from parks and boulevards and flower baskets.

His opponents argue that tourist revenue is more important to Victoria than these other things. And so it goes. The aldermen find themselves debating, not finances, but recreational and aesthetic values.

* * *

Other critics point to what they consider inconsistencies in the method.

Last year council was faced with a record high provisional rate of 61. They slashed desperately amidst cries of protest. Department heads have put many of the items right back on again this year. False economy last year, they say. Now we need even more money to make it up. A road deprived of ordinary maintenance in 1952, for example, needs twice as much this year.

Last year, council cut the fire department staff by 10 men for economy reasons and received a mandate from the voters for their action.

This year they have approved the addition of six men to the police department, three lost last year and three new ones, and a police budget increase of $34,248.

Discussion of the budget will continue this morning. In one sense it's only just begun. Wait until the aldermen get their hands on some of those extraordinary expenditures, many of the same ones deleted last year. All charitable and most special grants were dropped last year. There are about $21,000 worth of them in the budget again this year.

With the Classics

O Nature! I do not aspire
To be the highest in thy choir,—
To be a meteor in thy sky,
Or comet that may range on high;
Only a zephyr that may blow
Among the reeds by the river low,
Give me thy most privy place
Where to run my airy race.
In some withdrawn, unpublic mead
Let me sigh upon a reed,
Or in the woods, with leafy din,
Whisper the still evening in.

The Silver Chalice

(Thirtieth installment from the book THE SILVER CHALICE copyright 1952 by Thomas B. Costain. Published by Doubleday & Co. Inc.)

By Thomas B. Costain

Chapter 30

Jubilantly returning to tell Deborra the good news, Basil heard a loud shouting from behind the walls of the house. Then he noticed that the front gates were swinging wide open and that no one was standing [illegible] men climb in great haste over a side wall and vanish into the woods.

"Mijamin has struck!" he cried, racing up the steep road in furious haste.

When he arrived he saw a distracted group of visitors and servants in the outer court. Running through the inner garden, he found Luke bending over the unconscious figure of Eldad, one of the guards. Fearing the worst now, and filled with a furious and rebellious despair, Basil entered the house. He took the steps three at a time and came to the small room where the Chalice was kept. It also was empty. It was empty in another sense than in the absense of the men assigned to protect the Chalice. The Chalice was gone.

Basil stood for several moments and stared at the space on the table where the sacred Cup had stood. He was too stunned to think, too unhappy to have any coherent reactions to the disaster.

But there was another respect in which the room was empty. From the first he had been conscious of something different about the 12 models on the table and now he realized that this was due to a gap in the row. He turned quickly and counted them. There were only 11.

He walked to the table in deep fear of what he would find. The fear became certainty. It was the head of Jesus that was missing.

At first he was conscious only of what seemed a tragic coincidence, that if one had to be destroyed it would prove to be the most sacred of them all. Then he realized that chance had played no part in this. The model had not been broken in the haste with which the invaders had taken possession of the Chalice, it had been carried away. None of the others had been moved.

He had been a few moments only in the room. In a state of deep despair he descended the stairs and reached the inner court, where Luke was tending the wounds of Eldad. The physician's hands, already stained a deep red with the blood, were working with a sure but at the same time an almost frantic haste.

When Luke had done everything he could he turned to Basil and said, "And now, my son, I must tell you about Deborra."

"Deborra!" Basil cried. "What about her? Has she been hurt?"

"It seemed she suspected what the Zealots would do and stationed herself under the window of the room where the Chalice was kept. She attacked them when they jumped from the window. She was using your sword. I have questioned her, but she cannot tell much about what happened. As the point of the sword is reddened with blood, it is apparent that she used it to some purpose. When she was found, she was still unconscious from a blow on the back of the head."

"And while this happened I was on my way back from a day spent in looking after my own interests!" cried Basil. "I shall never forgive myself."

"She wants to see you, my son. You had better go up to her now."

* * *

Deborra was propped up on pillows, her head swathed in a large bandage. It was clear that she was still suffering from the wound in her head. Her face was a chalky white. She turned her eyes with the greatest difficulty in his direction. "I am glad you are back," she whispered.

Basil took her in his arms and pressed his cheek against hers. "My sweet wife," he said. "Will you ever forgive me?"

"Forgive!" she protested. "None of this is your fault."

"I should have been here. I shall always charge myself with negligence."

"But you had to be in court." He felt her stiffen suddenly in his arms. "Basil, what has happened? What was the verdict?" Before he could answer, she went on in a tone of self-accusation. "You have been blaming yourself because you were not here, but I have more reason to do that. I have been so upset for hours that I haven't given a thought to the case. How [illegible] means so much to you."

"There are things that mean more. The loss of the Chalice—and you, my dearest one, fighting here alone in my absence."

She began to sob. "You do not tell me and so I know that you—that you lost the case."

He shook his head. "No, I won. I have been declared the legal heir but that is of little importance."

Luke entered the room at this point, carrying a cup filled with a medical preparation. He held a hand against the vein in her throat for several moments and then shook his head. "You have been talking too much," he admonished. "Here, drink this. It will ease the pain and allow you to get some sleep." He turned to Basil. "I think you had better go and get some rest yourself."

Deborra reached out an imploring hand. "Not yet," she said. "Stay with me a little longer. Until I get to sleep."

* * *

Basil rose and went to the window to allow more air into the room by drawing the curtains. As he looked out into the dark the sky suddenly became so light that the world seemed on fire. There had never been such a light before, he was sure, for it lasted no more than a fraction of a second and yet he had felt as though he needed no more than an added iota of time to see far beyond the stars. It left as abruptly as it had come and the murk and stillness of the night closed in again.

The strangest part of it was this, that the coming of this sudden blaze in the sky had brought him a complete sense of peace. He could see stretching ahead all the beautiful things he was going to make, chalices and drinking cups and fine platters and imposing lavers, made of gold and silver and rich with precious stones, and back of them figures in bronze and marble, some of them of heroic size, all of this with such extraordinary clearness that he lacked only time to identify each piece and study its artistry of design. He was being allowed, he knew, a glimpse of the future. He knew that in the course of time he would bring all these lovely objects into existence. He raised his hands and stared at them.

"I must set you to work," he said aloud. Then he was ashamed, for the words had sounded plain and bald and, in the exultation of spirit that had gripped him, he wanted to speak in high-sounding voice and flowing phrase.

He realized that Deborra was sitting up and that her eyes were shining. "Basil, something very strange has happened!" she exclaimed. "The pain has left my head."

"Has it gone completely?" he asked. It was an unnecessary question, he was certain of the answer in advance.

"Completely. And suddenly I feel happy and content. I know that we must not complain or try to change what is happening. Everything is in the Lord's hands."

"I am sure," Basil said solemnly, "that we have witnessed a miracle."

"Yes, yes, of course. What else could it be? That strange light was sent to make us see the truth. It was sent to guide our feet."

Luke had said nothing. His eyes had turned to the window and he had not moved since the light had come and then so quickly subsided. It was clear that his thoughts had gone with it and were fixed on horizons of which they could not conceive.

* * *

He turned now and they could see that a mood of the greatest exultation possessed him.

"I have said many times, and meant it in all humility, that a prophetic tongue has not been given me, and yet when that light was in the sky I was able to see for a brief moment into the future, so brief a moment that there could not be in any language a word to define it. And what I saw brought great happiness to me. I know that all will be well. The Chalice will not be destroyed. The man who has it is torn already with doubts. He feels the sacredness of it and he does not know what to do. He will find himself so troubled in mind that he will desert the cause for which he has been fighting and bring the Chalice back to us. There will come to him a full resolution of all his doubts."

The voice of the old physician had been kept low, but now it blazed up with passionate conviction.

"Yes, my children, the Chalice will be restored. Tomorrow? In a month? In a year? I do not know. All I could see was that it would be returned to us and that we would be able to keep it in peace. Perhaps, with Jerusalem torn apart and swept with fire, the hands of our enemies will no longer be able to reach us."

"But," he cried, "that is not all! With that one look which was vouchsafed me I saw far into the future. The Chalice will be taken away a second time. There will be a flood, an earthquake, a convulsion of nature of some kind; and it will be buried deep down and lie in darkness for a very long time, perhaps for centuries. When it is brought out into the light again, it will be into a far different world. The earth will be peopled with new races, tall men, beardless for the most part, with strange talk on their tongues. There will be great cities and mighty bridges and towers higher than the Tower of Babel. But evil will be loosed and they will fight long and bitter wars with frightening new forces of destruction.

"In such a world as this the little Chalice will look strange and lost and very lonely. But it may be that in this age, when man holds lightning in his hand and rides the sky as Simon the Magician strove to do, it will be needed more than it is needed now."

A World of Experience... Over 26 Years

How many ways do they serve you?
Guess again!

All of these people serve you in useful ways through their jobs. But, like people in all walks of life, they may also be helping you in certain important unseen ways.

Take your postman, for instance. He may have helped to build your home through his ownership of life insurance. It's possible—because the money of thousands of life insurance policyholders is invested for them in building throughout the nation.

In the same way your milkman, lawyer or nurse may have helped build new highways, waterworks, schools, power plants or other essential public works in your community. For there are millions of people in these and many other occupations whose invested life insurance money works these ways for everyone's benefit.

And—who knows—perhaps your job too was created by these life insurance policyholders' dollars, invested to develop new businesses and industries.

Even your health may benefit because so many people own life insurance. Several medical research projects, supported wholly or in part by life insurance companies, are now seeking ways of checking diseases and prolonging life for all.

So anyone who owns life insurance—including probably you—does more than provide financial security for his family. He also serves his fellow-citizens in all these useful ways!

Postponement of Seats Redistribution Opposed by Liberal House Leader Kenney

Postponement of redistribution of legislature seats was opposed in the legislature yesterday by Liberal House Leader E T Kenney

If there is no redistribution before the next general election—which Premier Bennett has hinted will come later this spring—reforms cannot be implemented for another four years, protested Mr Kenney.

This would make it nearly 20 years since the last redistribution, he added.

Report of a special committee on redistribution, recommending postponement and ap [illegible] mittee to study the problem and make recommendations to the next session of the legislature, was received by the House.

LIMITED TIME

The committee report stated redistribution "constitutes a task of such magnitude that it is impossible with the limited time available in this session, to handle the assignment . . ."

Mr. Kenney, a member of the committee complained that deliberations of the group were not given sufficient priority. He said committee work was neglected when members were required to sit for long hours in the House, often at night

The committee, he said, had held only two meetings. The first was an organizational meeting and the second decided on postponement.

"The time has long since passed when we should have had a redistribution," he declared.

Mr Kenney said he would agree to the year's postpone- [illegible] guarantee that there will be no election in the meantime

He declared he was not in favor of a continuing committee and stressed that the work of two other continuing committees on hospital insurance and labor had been ignored.

Premier Bennett said he also had "some regret" that the committee didn't recommend some changes. He explained, however, that the government did not have a majority of members on the committee.

Informed that Mr. Kenney was the only member of the committee who voted against postponement, the premier said the legislature and the people of the province should know that the committee's report was unanimous except for one [illegible]

UP TO COMMITTEE

The premier said it was in the committee's hands to decide whether it wished to report immediately to the House or hold further meetings

The government made a special point of not having a majority on the committee so the issue could be handled on "a very impartial and non-partisan basis," he said.

Arthur Turner (CCF, Vancouver East) expressed belief that recommendations of the continuing committee would be implemented by the next session because they would be of a mechanical nature based entirely on facts involving representation and population.

Opinions would not be involved as they were in the work of the committees referred to by Mr Kenney, he said.

NOT PIECEMEAL

Mr Turner, also a member of the committee said the group did not want to do a piecemeal job of redistribution

Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) stated that responsibility for calling meetings of the committee was squarely on the shoulders of the government

E. E. Winch (CCF, Burnaby) said additional representations could have been allowed ridings with big populations under existing regulations during the current session

Mr. Winch said he was speaking directly for organizations in his riding which believe that Burnaby which has shown rapid expansion in population in recent years, should be given additional representation.

Best Town Planners Working on Kitimat

Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black told the legislature yesterday that the Aluminum Company of Canada is spending $150,000 to design an attractive and efficient townsite at Kitimat

The minister made the disclosure as the bill providing for incorporation of Kitimat was given second reading by the House.

Later, E. T. Kenney (L. Skeena), former lands and forests minister who played a major role in negotiations which brought Alcan to B.C., said the company has engaged the best town planners on the continent to lay out plans for Kitimat.

Mr. Kenney expressed satisfaction that the bill provided for immediate establishment of a municipal council.

UP TO COUNCIL

The development of the town is to be left in the hands of the council, he said

Members of the government assured Anthony Gargrave (CCF, Mackenzie) that Kitimat will not be a company town.

Mr Black noted that the $550,000,000 Alcan development has already provided employment for many British Columbians and added greatly to the economy of the province.

The aluminum smelter at Kitimat is expected to begin operations "in the late spring of next year," he said

Provisions for incorporation of the townsite are in accordance with terms of the province's agreement with Alcan signed in 1950, he stated.

The minister said the company holds 75 per cent of the privately held lands within the limits of the area to be incorporated He explained that the aluminum smelter and harbor facilities are included in the incorporation area

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices dropped lower some sharply in moderately active trade today on the Winnipeg grain exchange, reflecting declines on U.S. markets.

Commercial demand was limited. Some export buying appeared in barley but no overseas business was reported.

Export business of Canadian wheat included around 900,000 bushels, including 300,000 in the United Kingdom, 100,000 to the Republic of Ireland and 300,000 in Brazil.

Prices for Class Two and 4WA wheat were down ⅛ of a cent from Friday.

Western Oils Strong Spot In Market

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials glided lower in moderate stock market trading, canceling last week's small gains.

All sections except western oils lost ground.

Constructions provided one of the few firm spots in a week industrial list.

Western oils gained more than a point on the exchange index in early trading but slipped back to a minor gain at the close. Sapphire was a leader, gaining 25 cents. Amurex, Canadian Atlantic and Poplar also rose.

Golds weakened in light trading although Stadacona and New Dickenson gained.

Higher priced base metals traded lower with Falconbridge dropping 50 cents.

Uraniums slipped in listless trading. Gunnar dropping 80 cents and Chimo 20. New Larder U and Brunswick led New Brunswick base metals lower.

Ford Tends Lower

MONTREAL (CP)—Prices closed on the same lower note which marked trading throughout.

Leading the downswing were Ford A off 1¼ and Algoma off one point. Other movements were fractional.

Papers, senior oils, beverages, carriers, banks and miscellaneous industrials showed lower tendencies. Utilities and senior metals were narrowly mixed while beverages steadied.

Iso and Chimo fell 15 cents to set the pace in a lower mining section. Eastern Metals, Anacon and New Larder also slipped.

Western oils were a little better. Gaspe rose 20 cents and Bailey, New British Dominion and Antone climbed pennies.

Pacific Closes Firm

VANCOUVER—Most sections were lower at the close although the changes were small.

Canadian Atlantic, however, held firm at 6.15 and Pacific closed at $12¼ bid. Charter, Calmont and Central Leduc tended higher.

York Oil dipped 4 cents to 36.

Most mines were lower, with the uranium stocks, Beaverlodge and National Exploration out of favor. Golds were lower with Bralorne at 4.55, Pioneer at $1.92 and Caribou at 1.15.

Powell River was stronger in the industrials at 22½.

New York Declines

NEW YORK (AP)—Weakness in the aircrafts was the forerunner of a general decline in the stock market.

The list was fairly hard hit in some areas but just before the close a recovery movement got started and managed to shave down some losses.

Several pieces of news figured in the fluctuations of the market, and there were also technical considerations behind the decline.

Study Disclosed Free Ports Needless

BY HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Lots of people must have wondered, as I did, what advantages would accrue to Victoria, if this place was accorded the rights of a free port as suggested in the legislature last week by Harold Winch.

Investigation, mainly by my friend [illegible], chairman of the harbor development board of the Chamber of Commerce elicited some interesting data.

In the first place Canada has no free port (or foreign trades zone, as it is called in the U.S.). This is because a government inter-departmental committee in 1946 found that such facilities were not required.

The committee found that the existing Canadian customs facilities are so liberal that Canada can have practically all the advantages of a free port with none of the disadvantages.

The description of a free port is an enclosed and policed zone with no resident population and equipped with facilities to permit foreign goods to be handled, stored, mixed or blended, repacked and reshipped without customs hindrance, provided they are not moved out of the free port area.

AT SEATTLE

Facilities of this nature are provided in New York and Seattle.

However, so far as Canada is concerned, very similar facilities are provided by what is known as Class 3 warehouses [illegible] facilities are provided.

In these bonded stores, goods imported from other countries and due for export may be stored for varying periods or unpacked, sorted and repacked without customs interference. In other cases, goods imported for later export can be admitted on the usual custom basis but with 99 per cent of the customs returnable on completion of the export.

The inter-departmental committee in 1946 found these regulations so satisfactory that they could see no reason for recommending that legislation should be passed to give Canada free ports.

So far as the West coast was concerned they found that the bonded warehouse facilities for the major trades were adequate.

An inquiry of the local customs office disclosed the fact that not so many years ago Victoria had two privately-owned Class 3 warehouses, which the government department declares equivalent to a free port.

However, sad to relate the two warehouses were forced to close down.

British Columbia's First Distillery — Founded in 1904 by William Braid

Founder with Foresight

In the days when British Columbia cities were being hewn out of giant forest stands, few men foresaw the tremendous future in store for Canada's Pacific Province.

One man who did was William Braid. In 1904, he founded the Province's first distillery—The British Columbia Distillery Company Limited in New Westminster.

At a time when that city's population was a mere nine thousand, William Braid was laying the firm foundations . . . setting the policy of quality . . . for an industry that has played an increasingly important part in B.C.'s economic development.

Since 1904, the Company has steadily expanded its facilities to meet the growing demand for its quality products at home and in the markets of the world.

Today, the modern British Columbia Distillery on New Westminster's Braid Street stands as tangible evidence of the foresight of its founder—William Braid.

Clover Leafs Blast City Kins' Defense To Triumph, 55-53

Vancouver's Clover Leafs blasted Victoria Kins' defense into the rafters of Oak Bay Junior High School gymnasium last night, then galloped to a [illegible] 55-53 [illegible] their rivals for the British Columbia men's Senior "A" basketball championship.

The victory gave the Vancouverites a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series for the provincial crown. With the remainder of the contest slated for a familiar Vancouver floor this week-end Ron Weber's squad now reigns as strong favorite to retain its title.

However, Busher Jackson's Kins, hot and cold throughout the season, cannot yet be counted out. They suffered a similar crushing defeat in the opening game of the series then came back to capture two straight and could well do it again.

AHEAD AT FIRST

Following pre-game strategy, Kins played a slow, deliberate style of ball and checked fiercely in the early stages to end the first quarter with a 10-6 advantage and were leading 13-8 midway into the second canto.

Then Leafs' forceful checking and ball-hawking tactics needled their rivals into speeding up the tempo. With the faster play, the Victoria defense disintegrated and the Mainlanders poured 11 points through the hemp without a reply and walked off the floor at half time enjoying a 20-15 bulge.

The tussle followed the speedy pattern in the second half with the Kins forced to open up in an attempt to overcome the Vancouver lead. However, admittedly missing peppery Elmer Curtis, injured in Saturday's game, they were unable to cope with the hustle and reserve strength of the Leafs.

SCORING SPOTLIGHT

Stealing the scoring spotlight last night from his more publicized Vancouver teammates was burly Jack McKinnon. The cocky veteran amassed a total of 25 points on long one-handers, by bulling through for lay-ins or from the inevitable free shots.

As it turned out, McKinnon was the only Clover Leaf to miss from the foul strip, failing on four of 11 gift tosses. The remainder of his squad canned eight in as many attempts. On the other hand, Kins had a sad evening from the free throw line, managing to sink but nine of 33 tries.

One feature of the game was the low scoring by opposing bucketmen. Victoria's Johnny Clark, bottled up after the opening quarter, threw in just four points the rest of the way. His rivals, Jeff Craig and Ron Stuart, dunked only 10 points between them.

STEADY BOYES

Clark ended up with 11 points, a total matched by Bobby Boyes. The steady Boyes was a standout for Kins, allowing high-scoring Chuck Dean only three points and tossing in all his baskets while heading the [illegible] second half bid.

Kins were extremely lax on offensive rebounds as the game progressed, leaving Clark to do most of the work and Big John was usually badly outnumbered in the melees under the Leaf basket.

By their showing in the early stages, Kins showed they could yet take the B.C. crown away from Vancouver provided they maintain their own style of play. However, Clover Leafs again proved that few Canadian clubs can play a wide open game with them and still hope to carry off the marbles.

Jackson has one workout scheduled before Friday's encounter and will once again stress control basketball and defensive in an attempt to curb Kins' runaway tendencies.

Line-ups follow:

Victoria Kins: W. Ackerman, W. Bamford 1, B. Boyes 11, J. Clark 11, W. Dobbie, D. Hendey 4, O. Parker 3, D. Peden 1, H. Toope 2. Total 33.

Vancouver Clover Leafs: R. Stuart 3, B. Robertson 6, L. Mulhern 1, C. Dean 3, J. Craig 7, J. Bennett, J. Bale 1, J. McKinnon 25, M. Sceor 1, M. Mulhern 6. Total 48.

Rookies Blank Yanks

Washington Senators overwhelmed New York Yankees, 9-0, at St. Petersburg yesterday as Al Sima and Sonny Dixon, a pair of rookie righthanders, combined for a six-hitter.

The Senators specialized in long-ball hitting, six of their eight safeties going for extra bases with Jackie Jensen, Gil Coan and catcher Les Peden hitting homers. The Yankees failed to move a runner past second base.

Brooklyn Dodgers concluded their spring baseball campaign at Miami with Carl Erskine shutting out Philadelphia Athletics 8-0. It was Brooklyn's eighth victory in 10 games at Miami during which they drew 74,407 fans.

Erskine, manager Charlie Dressen's probable opening day choice, allowed only two hits in becoming the first Dodger to go the route.

Youngsters Seek Shamrock Berths

This is your goal fellows, work for it, suggests trainer Deans Blackstock as he holds up Shamrock sweater while five strain at push-ups during lacrosse club's first workout of season at S. J. Willis High School last night. Rookies working hard for starting berths are Don Hart, with Joker Juniors last year; Don Sherry from Nanaimo; Dave Unwin, formerly of Joker Juniors; Ed Kowalyk of Foul Bay, and John Makovsky of Foul Bay junior and senior B clubs.—(Colonist photo.)

Rocks' First Practice Attracts 29 Hopefuls

The accent this year will be on good conditioning, speed and hustle, more than ever, manager Ralph Baker said last night as the Victoria Shamrock Lacrosse Club began workouts in preparation for the 1953 Inter-City Lacrosse League campaign.

Baker explained that with the six-man lacrosse to be played this year speed will be the most important factor.

Twenty nine hopefuls and veteran Shamrocks turned out for the practice at S. J. Willis High School and were put through some stiff paces by trainers Deans Blackstock and Dusty Mair who are handling the club in coach Red McMillan's absence.

SEVERSON MISSING

Whitey Severson, the big question mark in the Shamrocks' plans this season, was absent from the workout and it is not known whether he will turn out or not. Several other of last year's Rocks were missing including Larry Booth, Bobby Monaghan, Arnie Ferguson and Art Green.

Among the newcomers last night were George Rerick, who played in Winnipeg last season, and Don Sherry, high scorer with the Nanaimo senior B club last year.

NORTHUP SIDELINED

Jackie Northup turned up at the workout but did not participate. He is sporting a broken finger on his left hand and is expected to be kept out of action for at least two more weeks.

Others at the workout were: Bob Long, Andy Ovcharick, Ken Druce, Len Scott, Vic Jones, Ernie Ball, Ed Kowalyk, Duff McCaghey, Art Winters, Roy Lawrence, Bob Seens, Wilf Scott, Jim Hetherington, Stan Gallup, Vic Gallop, Tom Druce, Roy Kerr, Bill Gosling, Dave Unwin, Don Hart, Bill Hatcher, Bill Brandon, Mike Price, Ed Honcharuk and John Makosky.

Heaneys played the role of Victoria and District Football Association league spoilers at Heywood Avenue on Sunday by battling to a 2-2 draw with Civil Service to enable Victoria West to clinch at least a tie for first place honors.

Servants, trailing Wests by two points, have only one game remaining while the greenshirts have two contests left. Wests need only a tie to clinch the league championship.

Civil Service took a 1-0 half time lead on a goal by Archie McMillan but Heaneys tied it up early in the second half on a goal by Frank Grealey.

Ab Travis put Servants into the lead again but Arnie Ferguson netted the equalizer when his high lob escaped goalie Joe Travis, who was out of position.

Junior Wins Uplands Golf

Next game tomorrow: Oak Bay vs. Victoria High.

Victoria High School added another rugby championship to its accomplishments this season by downing Mt. Douglas High, 9-5, to clinch the inter-high senior "B" championship yesterday.

It was the city institution's third straight victory in the three-team league and puts it four points ahead of Mt. Douglas and Oak Bay. Victoria High meets Oak Bay in the final game tomorrow afternoon.

Ron Wickstrom, Jack Willoughby and McLean scored trys for the Fernwood squad while Mike Shrimpton converted a try by Johnston for Mt. Douglas.

Oak Bay squeezed through to the junior division championship by edging Esquimalt, 6-5, in the final game of the schedule yesterday at Windsor Park.

Con Goddard plunged over for Esquimalt in the first half and F. Webb converted. Penalty kicks by Russ Shipley and Martin Liddell in the second half gave Oak Bay a well-earned decision.

Nanaimo Lures Eastern Boxla Stars

Blair Cook, manager of Nanaimo Native Sons in the Inter-City Lacrosse League, announced last night that seven Eastern Canada lacrosse stars had advised him by telephone that they would play with the Nanaimo club this season.

Cook declined to disclose names of the players concerned pending receipt of written confirmation expected within 48 hours. He did state however, that one of them would become playing coach and that two played for Hamilton Tigers, two were with Peterborough and one each with Mimico, Brantford and Brampton last season.

Buttons Stay at Uplands

Gordon Pellow and Bob Woods of the Uplands Golf Club met their first challenge of the city senior golf buttons on Sunday on their home course and came through in fine style.

Pitted against Charlie Carnegie and Fred Clunk of Gorge Vale, the Uplands pair twice overcame one hole deficits and went on to trim the challengers, 5 and 4. Pellow and Woods came in with a best ball of 67 while the losers fired a best ball of 72.

Clunk fired a birdie 3 on the second hole to put the Gorge Vale duo into the lead but the defending champions came back on the third to take the hole with a par 4. The challengers again went ahead on the fourth and held the lead by halving the fifth and sixth.

But that was all for Clunk and Carnegie. Successive birdies on the seventh and eighth by Pellow and Woods, respectively, moved the defending champions ahead and the pair won the ninth to move two up at the turn.

After the 10th was halved, the winners took the 11th with a par 3, halved the 12th, and then closed out the match by winning the 13th and 14th. Pellow checked in with a birdie 3 on the 13th and Woods won the dog leg 14th with a birdie 4.

Pellow and Woods will make their second defense of the lapel decorations next week against the challenge of Fred McColl and Vic Painter of Colwood at the Victoria Golf Club.

Margaret Todd and Shirley Fry won their sixth straight defense of the women's brooches on Sunday by edging Mrs. H. McIntyre and Mrs. D. Rhyva-Jones, 3 and 2, at the Victoria.

Vernon Takes Goal Lead In Junior Hockey Series

Vernon took a one-goal lead in a two-game, total-point series for the British Columbia junior hockey championship by edging Victoria junior all-stars, 4-3, at Memorial Arena last night.

Second game will get under way tonight at Memorial Arena at 8:30 p.m.

Although travel weary, the visitors were much the better club in the first period and took a 2-0 lead on a pair of goals by Nick Jost. After that there was little to choose between the clubs.

Jack Milburn cut the deficit in half two minutes into the second period skating through the entire Vernon team to score the prettiest goal of the evening. Merv Bidoski got that one back for Vernon near the end of the period but Maurice Cunningham scored for Victoria with one second remaining in the second session.

Cunningham tallied his second goal at 3:38 but Bidoski duplicated the feat for Vernon by scoring the winning goal at 13:45.

Bidoski was easily the outstanding player on the ice. The smooth forward, who scored three goals on Saturday night to pace Vernon to a 4-3 win over Trail and a chance at Victoria, set up Jost's two goals besides adding two of his own.

Maurice and Warren Cunningham turned in brilliant efforts for Victoria along with netminder George Hall who came through with several sparkling saves in the third period.

Tyees Open Camp Today—21 Players Ready

BY JIM TANG

BETTER SPRINGS HOTEL, Bowes Springs, Calif.—A total of 21 players, including 13 rookies, checked in here Monday and will be on hand when manager Cec Garriott calls the first spring workout of Victoria Tyees at nearby Sonoma Tuesday. The roster includes five outfielders, seven infielders, six pitchers and three catchers.

In addition to Garriott, veteran players on hand for the first workout include holdovers Don Pries, Bill Wisneski and Chuck Abernathy from last season's club. The other veteran players are outfielder Gail Taylor and first baseman Joe Clardy who were with Las Vegas of the Southwest International League last season, Negro outfielder Walt Tyler and catcher Sam Brusa.

Brusa is an unexpected addition to the Tyee roster. He was with Dayton of the Class "A" Central League last season, attended the Portland training camp this year and was signed as a free agent. He is expected to answer the problem of a relief for Milt Martin behind the plate.

Three of the rookies were brought in by Pries. They are infielder Nick Canulle, catcher Manny Tornay, brother of former WIL catcher Nino Tornay and Negro outfielder, Joe Wainright.

Eight rookies were signed by Garriott. They include shortstop Don Odekirk who drew rave notices at the Portland camp, infielders Bill Mosseau and Dave Brien, outfielder Wes Crossley, righthander Armond Nobla, and southpaws Dean Powlinson, Ralph Sterm and Zeb Walker.

Other rookies on hand are catcher Ralph Branting of Duncan and southpaw Berlyn Hodges of Victoria.

Expected to report within the next two or three days are holdovers Martin and Lu Branham, Nap Gulley, hard-hitting outfielder with Visalia last season, Panamanian outfielder first baseman Herman Charles and Negro southpaw, Ron Washington signed as a rookie by Garriott.

Word is expected from Portland Tuesday on what players the Beavers will be sending to the Tyees. It appears likely that the Coast League club will send pitchers Dick Waibel, Frank Chase, Bill Bottler, Jehosie Heard and Ralph Lineberger who was with Salem before being called into the army, to the Tyees.

Victoria righthander Bill Prior who has shown well at the Beaver camp, may get a trial against PCL competition along with outfielders Bob Moniz and Granny Gladstone and southpaw Ben Lorino. After a slow start, Moniz has developed into one of the most consistent hitters at the Beaver camp and Gladstone has been hitting the long ball. Lorino has appeared good on the mound.

Shortstop Jim Clark is still bothered by stiffness in the finger he injured at work during the winter and his return to action is still indefinite.

Although the roster is two deep at nearly every position it appears at this stage that the Tyees will need to bolster their pitching, a strong point last season when they won their first WIL pennant.

Merchants Champs After Easy Victory Over Sailor Squad

BY IAN GLENDAY

It was strictly "Merchants' Night" at Memorial Arena last night with Jim Lackie's power laden squad winning the city commercial hockey championship and speedy Toby Brown taking all but one of the individual awards.

In adding the city title to the league championship, Merchants left few doubts in the minds of more than 2,000 fans that when the chips are down and prestige at stake, no other club can match them.

Overcoming a 2-0 first period deficit, Merchants swept to an 8-5 victory over Navy in comparatively easy style to make it four straight over the fighting sailors in the best-of-seven final. In those four games, Merchants blinked the red light a total of 29 times against Norm Jones, the top netminder in the city.

Navy deserved its 2-1 lead at the end of the first frame and it took a goal by veteran Joe Evans with one second remaining to put Merchants on the score sheet.

ALL THE WAY

It was Merchants all the way in the second period as they banged home five goals against a singleton by Navy. The teams split four goals in the final session with Navy averting a worse trouncing by netting the final two goals in the last two minutes.

Clever Norm Lacree paved the way for Merchants again last night. Lacree, who picked up six points on Wednesday night, added three goals in the space of seven minutes in the second period and one assist.

Ron Bremner, with two, Joe Evans, Rudy Pishko and Ab Taylor were the other marksmen. For Navy, Darky Lowe, a standout for the sailors all [illegible] ter Roy Derry, Russ McKay and Dave Buick were the scorers.

Merchants walked off with all but one piece of silverware which was presented during and after the contest. Captain Ron Bremner received the League Cup, donated by Hocking & Forbes, and the Cross Stores Ltd. Trophy for the city title, won last season by Navy.

TOP POINT-GETTER

Toby Brown took the Victoria Sporting Goods Trophy as the league's top point-getter and also the A. H. Cox Trophy as the league's most valuable player.

The only award to escape Merchants was the F. W. Francis Jeweler Trophy, awarded to the goalie who has the best goals-against average. Navy's Norm Jones held a slight edge over Al Ellis of Merchants to receive the award.

SUMMARY

First Period: 1, Navy, Lowe 3:16; 2, Navy, Cowler 13:31; 3, Merchants, Evans 15:53. Penalties: Jensen 6, Audette 13:16.

Dorohoy Ends Fourth In WHL Scoring Race

A late season scoring spurt by Ed Dorohoy, Victoria Cougar playing-coach, earned him fourth place in the Western Hockey League individual scoring ladder as the season wound up Sunday night in Seattle.

Dorohoy's fast finish gave the pepper pot centreman 24 goals and 54 assists for 78 points and fourth place behind three prairie players.

Earl Reibel, Edmonton's young skating flash, topped the ladder with 34 goals and 56 assists for 90 points while Alex Kaleta of Saskatoon took second place with 26 goals and 57 assists for 83 points. Vic Stasiuk, Reibel's teammate who was hurt near the end of the season, wound up in third position.

Doug Adam of Tacoma scored the most goals, 39, and Kaleta led the assist department with 57.

FRANCIS TOP GOALIE

Emile Francis, Vancouver's cat-like goalie, paced the defenders with an average of 3.08 goals against. Seattle's Bill Brennan, with 3.14 was second and Edmonton's Glen Hall was third with 3.29. Lucien Dechene of New Westminster, whose brilliant netminding in the last half of the season helped the Royals gain a playoff berth, set a new league mark of six shutouts.

Jack Evans of Saskatoon set a new record for the most time spent in the penalty box with 179 minutes.

Next games tonight: First games of best-of-seven semi-final series for Stanley Cup: Boston at Detroit, Chicago at Montreal.

CHICAGO (AP)—Team hustle and a healthy respect for player-coach Sid Abel were credited for the sensational leap of the Chicago Black Hawks into the National Hockey League's top bracket.

Basking in the warmth of a victory which projected them into the Stanley Cup playoffs for the first time in seven years, the players agreed that it was the hustle instilled by Abel which propelled the squad.

The Black Hawks, who ended in the cellar five times since 1946, won nine of the last 12 games. They finished in fourth place after a 3-1 win over the New York Rangers Sunday, and open the playoffs Tuesday in Montreal, at least an even-money choice to beat the Canadiens.

HIGHEST PRAISE

George Gee, with Bill Mosienko the only Hawks remaining from the last cup qualification team of 1946, had this comment:

"We all think Abel is the greatest guy in the world. Any of us would skate right through the back boards if he told us to."

The Hawks never have finished first in the regular league race, but managed to win the Stanley Cup in 1934 and 1938.

They now have two leading candidates for individual league honors—Abel as coach of the year, and goalie Al Rollins as most valuable player.

Abel, who throughout the season has played or dressed for more than half of his team's games, is preparing for his 12th successive year of playoff competition. He played with the Detroit Red Wings for 11 years before joining the Black Hawks.

The 35-year-old player-coach has a competitive total of 96 playoff games to his credit—a mark topped only by Turk Broda, the retired Toronto goalie, who saw action in 100.

VETERAN LINEUP

Abel probably has the oldest lineup in the league. Most of his players are in their middle and late 20's or early 30's.

The leading scorer, Jimmy McFadden, listed as 32 but actually 34. He rammed in 23 goals to finish sixth highest scorer in the league.

The other reliables on the forward line are up in years, [illegible] Gee 30, Cal Gardner 28, Gus Bodnar and "Doc" Couture, each 27.

The only youngsters are Fred Hucul, 21; Jackie Price, 19, and Sid Finney, 23.

Goalie Rollins, 25, has yielded an average of only 2½ goals per game to opponents, a record for the Hawks that erased the previous best average of 3.23 by Sam Lo Presti in 1942.

It was the veterans who sparked Hawks Sunday. Peters scored unassisted early in the first period and Gee tallied the winner with seven minutes remaining, breaking a 1-1 tie that had existed from Al Stanley's goal for Rangers early in the second period. Couture added the clincher with 23 seconds left. Rollins was a standout between the posts.

VICTORY NECESSARY

Hawks' victory stymied Toronto Maple Leafs' late bid for a playoff berth. Leafs spotted Boston Bruins a first period goal and then went on to gain a 3-1 victory on second period goals by Tod Sloan, Bob Hassard and Sid Smith. If Hawks had lost their final game, Leafs would have taken the playoff berth on the basis of most wins.

Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings battled to a 1-1 tie in the other game with Canadiens blanking Gordie Howe and preventing him from tying Maurice Richard's record for most goals in a season.

Alan Davies, George Wright and Barry Jenner scored for the winners while Tryge Carlson and Mickey Gale tallied for the Vikings.

In an exhibition contest, Combines swamped Punjab United, 11-1, with Ken Barnes pacing the winners with five goals. Other scorers were Tom Rimmer and Bill Booth, with two goals each, and Herb Wetherell and Mike Burley. Catley Singh, making his first start in Canadian soccer circles, tallied for Punjab United.

Eagles clinched second place in the first division by edging an improving Sidney Teen Town squad, 4-2. Jack Harding scored two goals for the winners and Bill Hussey and Gordon Sillers added singletons. Scorers for Sidney were James Pearson and Harold Jacobson.

MICMACS WIN TITLE

On Saturday, Combine Pee Wee's came up with their best display of the season before bowing to Mic Macs 1-0 on a goal by Bryan Carver. Mic Macs were presented with the Jeff Edgelow Cup by Dan O'Connell for winning both the first and second half championship in the third division.

Black and White Taxi blanked Eagles, 4-0, in the final league game of the fourth division. Jim Wormald, Gary Cooper, Jack Showers and Bryan Vestrup scored for the winners.

Shepherd's Dairy trimmed Heaneys, 4-1, in a fifth division semi-final contest for the Victoria Baggage Cup at Hollywood Park. Art Affleck, with a pair of goals, and Barry Saunders and Buddy Foster, with singletons, scored for Heaneys, while Gary Roscamp tallied for the Dairymen.

Saanich Team Meets Sooke In Cage Final

Saanichton senior "C" men dropped a 51-48 decision to Brentwood at the Saanichton Agricultural Hall Saturday, but won a two-game, total-point Saanich and Suburban Basketball League semi final series by 10 points.

The winners meet Sooke in the first game of a two-game, total-point series for the league championship on Thursday night at Sooke with the second game billed for Saanichton on Saturday night.

Brentwood biddy girls edged Saanichton, 19-14, in the first game of a similar series for the biddy girls' league championship while Saanichton Scott & Peden trimmed Brentwood, 22-11, in the first game of a biddy boys' final.

Howe Takes Third Title; Misses Mark

Gordie Howe, Detroit's flashy right winger, was stopped in his bid to break the National Hockey League record of 50 goals in a single season on Sunday and wound up the season with 49.

Maurice Richard's record set in the 1944-45 season will stand for another year.

However, the Detroit winger easily won his third straight individual scoring championship with 49 goals and 46 assists for 95 points, a 24-point bulge over teammate Ted Lindsay. Richard was third with 61 points on 28 goals and 33 assists.

Five of the top eight players are members of the league champions and oddly enough, two of the remaining three are New York Ranger players, Wally Hergesheimer, who wound up fourth, and Paul Ronty, who finished sixth.

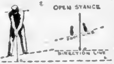
Remember When:

Lol Solman, famed Toronto sports promoter, died 22 years ago today. He built the old Mutual Street Arena, where Arenas and St. Patricks for years played their home National Hockey League games, and the stadium at Hanlan's Point across the bay, former home of the Toronto International Baseball League club. Solman was president of the Toronto ball club at the time of his death.

Golf—Here's How

BY SAM SNEAD



Here's the way you should swing No. 3 or 4 iron. Notice the ball is positioned slightly forward of centre. You need no divot with the straight-faced clubs No. 1, 2, 3, 4. The more lofted the iron, the more open the stance should be and the closer the heels should be together. And, of course, the more lofted the iron, the shorter the club shaft, so that you should stand nearer to the ball. The shorter the shaft, the more perpendicular you should make the swing and the shorter is the backswing. If the highly lofted irons Nos. 5, 6, 7 and 8 are correctly swung you inevitably take some divot because the clubhead does not reach the low point in the arc of the swing until just after clubhead meets the ball.

Record Entry For Road Race

One of the oldest athletic events in Victoria, the Canadian Legion Good Friday 10 mile road race, is less than two weeks from post time and every indication points to a record entry in the event.

A large entry is expected from the armed services along with Mainland, Victoria and possibly American entries. Three special awards will be donated by the Legion in an attempt to add glamor to the race.

First runner to reach the top of Foul Bay Road hill, approximately the one-third mark of the tough grind, will receive a special prize and the first serviceman to cross the finish line will also be given a special award. Third special award is for the first runner to pass Oak Bay Municipal Hall.

The two-and-a-half mile and one-and-a-half mile events also are expected to draw record entries with 26 runners from Victoria High already entered in the junior events.

Bantam Crown Retained By Carruthers

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—World bantamweight champion Jimmy Carruthers of Australia knocked out former champ Vic Toweel after 29 seconds of the 10th round Saturday night to retain the title and prove that his sensational winning of the championship was no fluke.

Carruthers, a 5-4 favorite in the scheduled 15-round bout, disappointed a crowd of 36,000 in open-air Rand Stadium, who had come to see their idol Toweel get even for a stunning first-round knockout last November 15.

why should shortening be "Cut in?"

Even if you happen to be a cracker-jack cook, you probably find it is tiresome to cut chilled shortening into the right size pieces. However, if you want crisp, flaky pastry that's light enough to blow away, you must "cut in" until the mixture has a pebbly texture. If the shortening is worked in with the fingers, or otherwise mixed smooth, the pastry won't be nearly so flaky. When Shirriff's set out to develop a pie crust mix that would be just as excellent as the kind good cooks make at home, we were determined to "cut in" the shortening too. We experimented for months, developed our own equipment, and finally produced the mix that we think is every bit as tender and crisp as the best pastry anywhere. You try it, even if you've never made a pie in all your life. We think you'll be pleased!

Players Blithely Defeat Impish Theatre Gremlins

BY RAY BAINES

Themselves victims of a few impish theatre gremlins the York Theatre players last night exorcised the sprites and blithely performed Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit."

Faced with the last-minute sickness of two members of the original cast, the group threw Ian Thorne and Mary Measures into the breach to turn in a [illegible] lovable performance.

Mr Thorne substituting for new actor-director Arthur Coe Gray, learned the part of Charles Condomine from 11 pm Sunday.

Those who have seen the wonderfully funny Noel Coward play needn't be told about its generous measures of wit. The dialogue is hilarious.

TERRIFIC DIALOGUE

Coward takes an amusing situation and weaves a pattern of [illegible] words. Though the situation of a married man whose departed first wife is conjured up by a medium is itself amusing, the play is not dependent on that situation for its humor.

The dialogue is terrific. Almost every line is a punch-line and every sharp retort puts an extra helping of laughter.

Considering his short preparation, Thorne does a marvelous job. Plagued by one, then two, departed wives materially manifested in shapely ectoplasm, our hero is led a merry chase.

As his former wife who is dead or passed over ("It is considered vulgar to say 'dead'"), Elizabeth Knight turns in one of the best performances she has ever given. Vivienne Chadwick is also excellent as Ruth, Charles' second wife, and Mary Measures substitutes beautifully for Mary Hincks as Edith the maid.

A special tribute should go to Gwen Downes for her playing of Madame Arcati, the medium. Any who saw the movie version of "Blithe Spirit" will find it difficult to forget the magnificent performance of Margaret Rutherford in the part. Even though it is difficult to avoid making comparisons, most will agree that Gwen Downes did it justice.

Outstanding was the special effects job by the technical people who, with green spotlights and make-up maintained a ghostly aura about Miss Knight throughout.

Despite the last-minute changes the line and cue problems were not as great as might be expected. Some of the dialogue was a little rough in spots, but most of it was neatly covered up by some expert ad libbing.

The next performances should be very much smoother.

This is a very funny play and a tough one to do. The York Players overcame some pretty grave obstacles and turned out one of the most enjoyable shows yet.

Oceanography Mixture of Sciences

The problems confronting oceanographers on oceanic movement, mixing of fresh and salt water and the analysis of coastal waters was outlined by Dr G. L. Pickard of the department of physics, University of British Columbia, last night.

Speaking to members of the University Extension Association at Victoria College, Dr Pickard lectured and showed [illegible] waters.

"Oceanography is not a science but a field of research that interests the men of several individual sciences," Dr Pickard said.

Chemists, physicists, biologists, engineers and geologists all take a particular interest in the sea and its component parts, sometimes working together to solve problems of particular interest to all, he said.

"It is an old study but here on the Coast we are mainly concerned with the study of coastal waters and inlets rather than deep-sea areas," Dr Pickard said.

MIXING MYSTERY

One of the problems now being worked on by oceanographers is the mixing of fresh and salt waters at estuaries along the coast.

"The river water flowing down at the head of inlets tends to flow on top of the salt water for quite a distance, and in many places can be used as fresh water up to a depth of 10 feet," he said.

Just where this fresh water mixes with the ocean, and how it does so is a problem that has long mystified the scientists working on it [illegible] carries a sediment of fine powdered rock peculiar to our coast, but after it mixes with the ocean it becomes the same consistency and mixture as sea water the world over. Just why this happens we do not know," he said.

The movement of the oceans is another thing that has not been defined very accurately he said. If this motion could be accurately charted such information as how best to dispose of sewage, or how long it will take contaminated water to clear from an area could be plotted for commercial use.

SPAWNING STUDIED

"They return unerringly to the river they came from, with very little error," he said. "Salmon will pass the mouths of several rivers to get in the one they were born in. What tells them they are in the right spot is something we would like to know and we are striving now to find the answer."

New Hospital Opened At Colwood

An impressive ceremony was performed at Langford Saturday afternoon when the Priory Hospital was officially opened.

About 200 people were present at the ceremony. Speakers were Mayor C. Harrison, Dr. J. Tysoe and the resident doctor, Dr. M. Roach.

Billy Roach handed the scissors to Bishop J. M. Hill to cut the ribbon stretched across the door of the hospital, and after the bishop's blessing, the party inspected the hospital.

The Belmont High School band were on hand to play the "Queen" at the start of the proceedings, and played several selections during the afternoon.

Tea was served in the main building and visitors signed the guest book.

Island Holly Growers Meet, Re-Elect Retiring Directors

Thinking about holly in the spring of the year seems as inappropriate as planning hot plum pudding for Dominion Day.

But on Saturday last, at the Farmers' Pavilion, Saanichton, the atmosphere was as thick with holly talk as the proverbial smoke in the back room of a political rally.

The occasion was the annual general meeting of the Vancouver Island Holly Growers' Association, a lusty infant now in its third year and giving promise of adulthood which will command respect across the Dominion.

The good attendance included members from Hilliers in the north to Oak Bay in the south and most points between.

MEMBERS THANKED

In his annual report, the president, Col. R. H. Richardson, thanked the members for their genuinely co-operative spirit and expressed confidence in the outlook for the current year. He emphasized the benefits of adherence to the co-operative principle.

After the adoption of the financial report, the four retiring directors were re-elected by acclamation. They were Col. R. H. Richardson, Brentwood; W. R. Squace, Royal Oak; W. T. Miller, Victoria, and Mrs. L. Hafer, Brentwood.

J. J. Woods, superintendent of the experimental station, addressed the group and pointed out that holly production was negligible in relation to the population of the country. This fact, he felt, augured well for the industry. At the same time, he warned of growing competition from manufactured holly.

J. Crossley, in charge of holly research at the station, said experiments were geared to the future and could only produce information gradually. But he was able to give results of shipping experiments conducted during the last Christmas rush. These proved that holly, properly dipped and packed, will travel long distances and open up with no loss of sheen on the foliage or dropping of berries.

H. Andison, Dominion entomologist, gave a [illegible] informative talk on the pests which holly growers must combat to produce marketable quality.

After refreshments, served by the ladies of the group, the afternoon was rounded out by a visit to the experimental plot, recently established at the station, consisting of one acre of nursery stock of the best English and Oregon varieties.

Although final arrangements have not been made, a city official said it was "almost certain" the ceremony would be held and the "keys to the city" extended.

Miss Scott will be in Victoria to star in the Victoria Skating Club's "Ice Capers of 1953."

Trip Fund Hits Halfway Mark

The campaign to send two Victoria high school students to the Coronation has reached the halfway mark.

Municipal inspector of schools, J. F. K. English, said last night that $941, or enough to send one of the two chosen, has been collected to date.

"If we are to get the passages booked in time, we must have the balance of the $2,000 needed fairly quickly," he said.

The response to the appeal for funds has been excellent and the school board feels confident the remaining amount will be donated fairly soon, he said.

The students, Bernice Perfect, Mount Douglas High School, and Edward Walters, Esquimalt High School, have already been measured for the blazers they will wear while in England.

All Canadian students attending the Coronation will be dressed in similar blazers complete with the Canadian crest, Mr. English said.

Possession of Nitro-Glycerine Charged

Accused Man Nicked by Police Bullet

A 37-year-old Vancouver man appeared in city police court yesterday morning following a dramatic capture Saturday night in which the accused was "winged" by a police officer's bullet.

Robert Douglas Morgan was charged yesterday with having unlawful possession of nitro-glycerine. He was remanded without plea until March 30.

Responsible for the man's arrest was city constable K. R. Wainwright.

The police officer, on routine patrol in the Blanshard-Cormorant area Saturday night, saw two men running down an alley. He ordered them to halt, but no attention was paid. The policeman yelled the order again this time threatening to shoot.

He fired over the men's heads but they kept on running.

Following shots were aimed with the intention of "winging" the fleeing men. Morgan was hit on the wrist. The officer overtook him and made the capture. The second man got away.

A small bottle of nitro-glycerine was found near the place where Morgan had been apprehended.

Taxes Complex For Professions

BY GORDON HOLMS
Member of the Institute of Chartered Accountants

If your income is from professional fees, as contrasted with salaries and wages, the taxpayer enters into another world of tax payments.

First decision to be made involves whether you will report on the actual cash received during the fiscal year, or your earnings during the year.

One covers the actual amount of cash received in the year even if it was earned in another tax year, and the second the total of your fees whether they are paid in that year or not.

There are drawbacks and advantages to both systems.

Whichever you choose, the same system must be followed in subsequent years. Thus, if you are committed to one system and wish to change to the other, you must have permission of the director of income tax.

The same rules apply to dentists and doctors, so for the purpose of illustration of professional fees we will deal with these categories.

Accurate records of both income and expenses are required. Since a doctor's overhead is very high, allowance for expenses is quite generous.

All normal business expenses are allowable.

However, there is one type of expense incurred by a doctor or dentist which is not an allowable deduction from income, namely the cost of refresher or post graduate courses. Several legal decisions have established this point.

Normal depreciation is allowed on medical and office equipment. However, it should be noted that instruments costing less than $50 may be taken as an expense and charged off in the year of purchase. Instruments costing $50 or more must be capitalized and depreciated in the normal manner. The cost of library additions is allowed in the year of purchase.

In claiming automobile expense, the claim must be substantiated by actual vouchers for licenses, oil, gasoline, grease, insurance, washing, garage charges and repairs. No claims based on so many cents per mile allowed. The doctor must be careful to allow a reasonable sum for personal use of his car since this is not a part of his professional use of the automobile.

Reasonable expenses incurred by doctors at conventions also are allowed. An example of a year's allowable conventions for one doctor would be the Canadian Medical Association, a provincial medical association or provincial division of the Canadian Medical Association, a medical society or association of specialists in Canada or the United States.

Where a doctor practices from his home, there are allowances for this use of space in a private residence.

College Dance Planned

Wheels began turning Saturday as plans were laid for the Victoria College 50th anniversary banquet and dance for March 27 at Chez Marcel. Ray Frey, president of the Student Council and Judge Joseph B. Clearihue, chairman of the Victoria College Council and a student of the school 50 years ago, map out the evening's program. Judge Clearihue will be guest speaker at the banquet.

Protests Too Late; Scheme To Go Ahead

Saanich council last night authorized a local improvement for water service on Old West Road, declaring protests received were too late.

A petition for the service had been received some time ago and declared valid. Some persons favoring the service later registered objections. Council discussed these last night but found that objections still were not sufficient to throw out the scheme.

Others on the original petition had since sold their properties, council heard. New owners told council last night they favored the local improvement.

In giving approval on the original petition, "people invested in lands they otherwise might have ignored," said Reeve Joseph Casey.

Clr. E. P. Cummins countered that he felt the motion to allow work was "not democracy."

"Any shyster lawyer or real estate man . . ." began Clr. L. H. Passmore. "I object," retorted Clr. H. K. Bate, a lawyer in private practice, "to connection of the word shyster with lawyer."

"I withdraw with pleasure," continued Clr. Passmore. "Shall we say any unscrupulous person could come along and stop local improvements by acquiring property."

The first generation of Norman settlers in Canada numbered 800 families with about 5,000 children.

Star To Visit Two Hospitals

Children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium and patients of Veterans' Hospital will have a chance to meet skating star Barbara Ann Scott when she appears as the star in the Ice Capers of 1953.

Miss Scott, her partner Michael Kirby and English skating comedian Jan Tors will arrive at Patricia Bay from Vancouver Wednesday evening. They will be met by Victoria Skating Club president R. V. Hocking and club official Jack Kilgour.

The threesome will be taken on a tour of the Solarium and Veterans' Hospital sometime Friday. Other public appearances will be made by the skaters, but no schedule has yet been announced.

Wholesalers Cut Price Of Cigarettes

Members of the wholesale tobacco trade in Victoria yesterday dropped the price of their popular brand cigarettes by two cents to allow their customers to reduce prices in line with the chain stores, if they wanted to.

"We have made the reduction temporarily," said a member of one wholesale firm, "but we are waiting on a general lead from Vancouver and we may revert to our old prices."

In Vancouver a meeting of the B.C. Jobbers' Association Monday night decided to stick with the present price of 34 cents for a pack of 20 "as long as possible."

Some Stations Still Selling Gasoline At Old Prices, Victoria Drivers Find

The motorist looking for gasoline at the old price did not have to search very far yesterday. About one in four service stations were still selling gasoline at the price which ruled before Imperial Oil last weekend raised its price by 1.7 cents a gallon.

The confusion arose through the fact that of the major gas companies, only Imperial so far has put the increase into being.

Yesterday the local headquarters of Shell, B-A Oil and McColl Frontenac all reported that they were distributing not only gasoline, but furnace and stove oils at the former prices.

It is expected to be only a matter of time, however, before the other companies hike their prices.

Late last night Standard Oil of B.C. announced an immediate increase in its price of gasoline, furnace oil and stove oil.

The new Standard prices are up 1.7 cents a gallon for gasoline; 2.10 cents for furnace oil, and 2.4 cents for stove oil, the same as Imperial.

Yesterday a number of service stations started off by charging the higher prices and then switched back their pumps to the old prices when they found that they were still getting delivery at the cheap prices.

One of the service station operators who raised his prices first thing yesterday said that it wouldn't have made much difference whether he charged the price or not—nobody seemed to be buying gasoline.

"The reason is that everyone's gas tank is full," he said. "On Friday night and right up to the early hours on Saturday I did a record business. Everyone wanted his tank filled, and until the tanks begin to run dry we will not get much business."

BCHIS Gives Approval To Hospital at Tofino

The building will replace the old hospital burnt out last summer. It will cost $177,534 and will be constructed to the design of Whittaker and Wagg, architects, by Souther Construction Company Ltd. of Port Alberni.

The announcement was made yesterday after two members of the Tofino Hospital finance committee, Fred Hagelin and Fred Knott, interviewed Health Minister Eric Martin.

The hospital has been designed in "T-form" and will be capable of extension of both surgical and medical wards and also the maternity wing.

On the main floor there are 17 beds, a nursery, doctor's office, matron's office, general office, treatment room, X-ray suite, operating and delivery rooms, laboratory, diet kitchen and utility rooms.

The basement will contain kitchen, laundry, boiler room, staff dining room and matron's living quarters.

A site of three acres has been donated by members of Tofino community and the clearing has been done by them. Construction will begin shortly.

W. C. Moresby To Mark 40th Year as Bencher

The dean of Victoria lawyers, 76-year-old W. C. Moresby, QC, will celebrate his 40th year as a bencher of the B.C. Law Society at the end of this week.

Mr. Moresby will be honor guest at a special dinner at the Union Club Friday evening.

His long service as a bencher is considered to be unique in Canada. Mr. Moresby was elected to the position in 1913 and re-elected every year for the next 20 years. Since 1933 he has been an ex officio bencher, but has served actively until now on the guiding body of the law society.

He has been an active lawyer for 55 years and is now senior partner in the firm of Moresby and Halbert.

Mr. Moresby began his long career in New Westminster in 1892 at 16 when he was articled to the firm of McColl, Corbould and Campbell. He was called to the bar in January, 1898, when he came to Victoria and joined Drake, Jackson and Helmcken. He remained with them for five years.

ENTERED PARTNERSHIP

About 1905 he entered partnership with A. J. O'Reilly in an office where the present Imperial Bank stands, and in 1910 the partners took in R. C. Lowe and moved in the Belmont Building.

For 29 years, Mr. Moresby has been chairman of the B.C. Law Society finance committee.

He will be 77 next June but has no intention of retiring for a few years yet.

"I don't know what I'd do if I quit now," he said yesterday.

His family specializes in longevity. Mr. Moresby had an uncle who lived to be 94. His 96-year-old mother lives with him at his home in Victoria.

Council Vies With House

It was a legislature in miniature when Agenda Item No. 12 was discussed in Saanich council last night.

Full title for the "act" read, "Letter from Frank Snowsell, MLA, requesting support of council for request for grant to Saanichton Fair."

Marginal notes from the letter indicated that the minister of agriculture, in announcing grants to agricultural exhibitions, did not mention Saanichton Fair but has assigned $2,500 to Duncan.

The notes said, "A. Doney, B. Houle and myself discussed this with the minister, who expressed the belief that Duncan was the best site for a large Island fair and he felt that better exhibitions and results would be obtained from elimination of small fairs."

The latter said the stand was criticized on the grounds that persons able to attend Saanichton might not be able to attend Duncan, and that new exhibitors would find the Duncan journey expensive, perhaps prohibitive.

The tradition of the fair and its value was stressed.

"The visit was partially successful, a grant of $600 was announced, up $200 from last year," the notes continued.

From the floor of the Saanich "house" came.

"That's the Social Credit government, it gives more than requested but people still ask more," said E. P. Cummins (SC).

"The position is more like that of a thug," said L. H. Passmore (CCF).

"It's like him taking candy from a kid and giving the rest back to him. Then he gets on a soap box and says, 'Look how generous I am'," Mr. Passmore continued.

"Support the fair always," said G. Stanley Eden (Ind.).

There was no comment from Joseph Casey (Lib), reeve.

The "house" voted to receive and file action because the letter was not clear.

Saanich Adds Voice

Opposition appears unanimous among Greater Victoria councils against transfer of $75,000 from Central Junior High School's account to that of Oak Bay.

Saanich council last night drafted a motion similar to that going before Victoria's council Thursday against councils assuming responsibility for the transfer.

Unanimous approval of the motion was given last week at a meeting in city hall of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt municipal officials.

The motion drafted by Saanich last night reads: "That because of the uncertainty of the present financing in respect of schools, that the Greater Victoria School District 61 be advised that the municipality of Saanich will not take care of the transfer of funds from the Central Junior High School account to that of the Oak Bay Junior High School account."

Old Friend in New Guise

Secret Library Fund Illegal, Says Mayor

The Victoria Public Library's "secret fund" of $30,000 is entirely illegal, according to Mayor Claude Harrison.

The mayor gave his opinion during a recent discussion by city council of the library estimates in the budget. The fund was built up over 30 years from fines charged for overdue books.

The mayor said he had spoken to a deputy minister on the matter and was told "it should not have been done."

AGAINST ACT

"It's against the act entirely," the mayor said.

Council took no action regarding the library estimates until certain confusion was cleared up. The budget figure was $147,460 for the 1953 library estimates and $71,725 revenue from the other municipalities.

A later statement, however, showed $133,180 expenditure and only $63,103 revenue from outside municipalities.

Ald. Percy Scurrah, city representative on the library board, said the $30,000 fund had never been reported to council.

"I'm not very happy over this (library) budget, I don't mind telling you," he said.

He said the library board planned to use part of the "secret fund" to pay for a bookmobile for the outlying areas.

He said Central Saanich came into the library board on the understanding it would get a bookmobile.

"We are morally bound," he said.

Mayor Harrison said he was absolutely against a bookmobile.

Cost of the vehicle was given at $7,500 and operating costs would be about $8,300 a year.

Part of the confusion during discussion was regarding the bookmobile costs and the $30,000 fund which apparently did not show in the ordinary estimates.

Check-Off Set For Federal Civil Servants

Members of the Civil Servants' Federation of Canada in Victoria will be able to have their monthly dues deducted from their pay at source, it has been announced by the national joint council of the federation.

The request to have this check-off system in operation was passed by the council some months ago, but was turned down by the government. The council made representation again to the cabinet in Ottawa, and the approval was made known yesterday.

G. K. Sammon, district council representative in Victoria said last night that this is a great step forward for the federation.

"We have fought long for this. It will certainly help hold the organization together," he said.

He said all civil servants in this area have been asking for the voluntary check-off system for a long time.

Enjoys Housekeeping Aboard Ship

BY EILEEN LEAROYD

Pretty Mrs. A. J. Reeves is married to an ex-RAF squadron leader and a 48-foot ketch.

Both the squadron-leader and the ketch are doing well.

Anthony John Reeves looked far more like a sailor than an airman when we visited the "White Hart" moored to Fisherman's Wharf, and the daffodils and hyacinths blooming in a box on the open fore-deck looked strangely like daffodils [illegible]

The woman's touch was even more evident in the snug cabin amidships, where 7-weeks-old Michael was viewing a nautical world from a comfortable, satin-lined basket. A light sea breeze coming in the cabin door moved the tiny red drapes at the portholes.

Mrs. Reeves, who is exceptionally attractive with vivid blue eyes, has been a housekeeper afloat for six years and wouldn't think of trading her life for that of a landlubber.

She has a world in miniature on the ketch. She shops once a week for groceries ashore — when the "White Hart" goes to sea she simply takes on larger supplies.

The only ties in her world are a couple of mooring lines. If she wants to move or travel, she doesn't have to rent her home, worry about how the garden will fare — the Reeves simply cast off.

They do have rent of a sort. Four dollars a month for mooring fees and water and then of course running repairs to the vessel.

SOUTH SEA CRUISE

Right now Anthony Reeves is doing a slight refit, to ready the boat for the start of the salmon fishing in May. Then he will go for tuna, if there is any.

This fall they hope to charter the ketch to a couple in Alaska who want to cruise in the South Seas. The Reeves will act as crew for them.

Mrs. A. J. Reeves with baby Michael.

The "White Hart," designed by John G. Alden, was built in the West Indies and the Reeves sailed her up here in May last year. It took them 57 days from Panama, running on engine about one-third of that time.

English-born Mrs. Reeves had done no sailing before her marriage. During the war as Valerie Chamier, she was a lieutenant in the ATS and served with an anti-aircraft battery.

Mr. Reeves, who comes from Southampton, bought a 38-foot troller called "Random II" when he and his wife first came here in 1947.

Later the troller seemed a bit small and it was touch and go as to whether to buy a house ashore as well. They decided on investing the house money in a bigger boat instead.

They both agree "we never want to live ashore," and they are sure that children thrive on salt air and sea.

Eventually they plan to cover the globe in their boat, but first on the agenda is a trip to New Zealand.

Young Michael hasn't made his thoughts on this known yet.

"As he will grow up on the sea I expect he will later have a strong ambition to become a farmer," said Mr. Reeves.

As we were leaving, the Reeves invited the people on the boat tied up alongside, to come over for tea.

"One lump or two," said Mrs. [illegible] just like a landlubber.

Theatre Veteran Joins York

Still growing, with a view to finer drama for Victorians, the York Theatre Company has recently added the name of a second director to its already crowded call board.

The newcomer, Arthur Coe Gray, of Portland, Ore., brings a wealth of theatrical experience to the fast-maturing city company that will add still more to its coming productions.

A tall, distinguished looking man with a deep, booming voice, Mr. Gray has been in the theatre since 1929 when he graduated from the University of Oregon.

His love of the drama together with his powerful voice and two years' acting experience on the New York stage took him to Cornell University where he earned his master of arts degree in dramatic production. On graduation in 1932 he went into educational theatre work and was appointed head of the department of speech at Sioux Falls College, Iowa.

From Sioux Falls he moved to Furman University in South Dakota where he instructed in the dramatics department until his enlistment in the U.S. army in 1942.

During the 13 years from his graduation until he joined the army, Mr. Gray found time to establish the legitimate theatre in many cities, over and above his teaching duties.

He is the founder of several theatre groups and one drama league that takes in the amateur theatres in several southern U.S. states.

In 1929 he organized and promoted the Very Little Theatre of Eugene, Ore., and on his move to Iowa, was responsible for the founding of the Sioux Falls Community Playhouse in 1931. In 1937 he opened the Community Theatre of Greenwich, S.C., and in 1941 became the managing director of the Blue Ridge Theatre in Hendersonville, N.C.

During this time he was busy organizing the South Eastern Drama League of little theatre schools.

When the United States entered the Second World War, Mr. Gray enlisted and served in both the U.S. and European theatres.

ARTHUR COE GRAY

Holding the rank of captain, he was theatre officer at Salisbury, England, and later saw service in both the Normandy and Rhine campaigns as commanding officer of the Second Special Service Platoon.

Discharged from active service in 1947, he began his return to civilian life with an appointment to head dramatics at Lewis and Clarke College, Oregon.

In 1951 he was called back into the army for 18 months where he instructed in dramatics and voice at Fort Slocum, New York. After his second discharge he was invited to join the York Company and begins his duties this week.

Theatre-goers will see him for the first time in the new York production, "Blithe Spirit," now showing.

Buxtons Plan Reunion

A reunion in grand style is planned by the Buxton family, 563 Head Street, Esquimalt, for this Wednesday.

Cpl. David Buxton, youngest of eight soldier sons of Mrs. P. H. B. Buxton, will arrive [illegible]

Cpl. David is one of three Buxton brothers to serve in Korea with the Canadian forces. Five of the eight brothers are still in uniform, and all are veterans.

Staff-Sergeant Richard Buxton, DCM winner in Korea, returned home last year, and Sgt. Frank returned home last week after serving 17 months in the Far East.

OTHER SONS

The other sons are Kenneth, Work Point Barracks; Fred, formerly with the PPCLI; James, former RCAF; Bill, a sergeant at Chilliwack and Sonny, with the RCMP at Ashcroft.

Cpl. David will arrive in Vancouver after a U.S. troop transport lands them at Seattle. There are 150 Canadians aboard the transport.

Also returning to Victoria from the transport will be Pte. George W. Hawes, PPCLI, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hawes, Beaver Lake Road, and Craftsman William L. Murray, RCEME, Glyn Road.

Pte. Hawes has served a full year in Korea. He is a native of Victoria but for the past two years, since he joined the army, he hasn't seen much of his home town.

FOR ONE WEEK

"We've only seen him for one week in two years," his father said last night. "He flew out here from Ontario for his embarkation leave."

Cfn. Murray, who has been in the army six years, left Victoria for the Far East in February, 1952. He spent a year at Work Point Barracks before going to Korea.

Mrs. Murray, who said last night she is "walking on air," believes her husband won't wait to take the midnight boat from Vancouver tonight. "I think he'll fly," she said.

Second Reading Given 23 Bills

B.C. Lawmakers Get Down to Business

The province's 46 lawmakers finally got down to the business of making laws yesterday.

In a 3½-hour sitting, their first devoted exclusively to legislation, they gave second reading—approval in principle—to 23 public bills and first reading to four new ones.

Sparsely populated galleries heard the MLA's ploddingly debate such measures as the [illegible] trict Enabling Act and Act to Amend the Horned Cattle Purchasers' Act.

The sitting was quiet and sedate—a contrast to the fiery battles of recent weeks—except when the MLA's got sidetracked on two lengthy debates, both of which Forests Minister Robert Sommers declared were based on false premises.

Opposition members were suspicious of Bill 39, an act to amend the Water Act, when they read in it references to hospital construction by improvement districts.

HOSPITAL DISTRICTS

Many members appeared to agree with Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) who said he was "afraid this is an intriguing way to bring in hospital districts like they have in Alberta, where they tax land owners for the operation of hospitals."

Robert Strachan (CCF-Cowichan-Newcastle) said the bill looked like "a way for the government to slip out from under its duty to the people in providing hospital accommodation."

Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan) said it was "another method of loading a little more taxation on our rural friends."

Mr. Sommers explained the bill had nothing to do with the operation of hospitals. It simply provided the power for the government to make advances to improvement districts which wanted to build their own hospitals, and for the districts to pay back the money over a period of years through taxation on lands in the district.

Under existing legislation, an improvement district must repay any government advances within one year. When a large amount was advanced, as for hospital construction, this short repayment time would mean a considerable hardship to the people of the district, Mr. Sommers said.

Work bogged down again when MLA's began discussing an act to amend the Forest Act.

Several opposition members feared the bill would mean that private citizens could be barred from driving on logging roads in forest management license areas, and that their cars could be impounded.

Mr. Sommers insisted that the bill had exactly the opposite effect.

As matters stand, he said, forest management licensees have the right to prohibit use of their private roads. The bill would make these roads available to the public except when material damage might result from such use. If a licensee "unreasonably" blocked his roads, any citizen would have the right to appeal to the cabinet.

HARDLY A WORD

When that misunderstanding was straightened out, the bill slipped through second reading with hardly a word said about its provisions for forced reforestation of private lands.

Four of the bills given second reading, and one of the new bills introduced, were tied together in a package dealing with mental illness.

Most important of the lot was a new Mental Defectives Act, which provides for the direct admission of mental defectives to Woodlands School in New Westminster. Present laws require that mental defectives be admitted first to Essondale, then transferred to Woodlands as space becomes available.

The other bills would amend the Mental Hospitals Act, the Lunacy Act, the Sexual Sterilization Act and the Clinics of Psychological Medicine Act to conform with the change.

ALCOHOLICS

The Mental Hospitals Act amendments also provide for the admission of alcoholics to mental hospitals for treatment for not less than 30 days. Alcoholics who enter mental hospitals now may leave after five days, before treatment has become effective.

Bills providing increased pensions for retired teachers, municipal employees and civil servants below the age of 70 also were approved.

Another bill given second reading would set up a 10-man committee to study all information available on the Columbia River Basin, and would work in co-operation with Canadian and American authorities concerned with the proposed power dam at Libby, Mont., which would flood 15,000 acres of B.C. territory.

All bills must still be given clause-by-clause study by a committee of the whole house, then given third reading and royal assent before becoming law.

Approximately 70 bills are now before the House and another 30 or more are expected. Only one has been given assent so far.

Man, 103, Claims Title

A man who was nine years old when The Daily Colonist was born 94 years ago claims the distinction of being Victoria's oldest citizen.

He is John Frederick Turner, 1054 McGregor Avenue, who began his 103rd year on October 11 last year.

Still active, Mr. Turner often chops wood as a pastime. He still goes to church every Sunday, too.

He was born in Paddington, England, and came to Canada when he was 57, settling in Saskatchewan near Prince Albert.

He came to Victoria in 1937. Two of his children, M. H. Turner, 1608 Jubilee, and Mrs. G. Craig, 1728 Lee Avenue, also reside in Victoria.

Uncle Wiggily Story - -

By Howard Garis

BUNTY'S CRYING DOLL

"WAH! WAH! WAH!"

Bunty the orphan rabbit was sitting in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow singing to her doll Priscilla.

"Sleep baby sleep. Close your eyes," sang Bunty. Then she went on. "When you wake up darling dear, you'll have a grand surprise!"

"What kind of a surprise is your doll going to have?" asked Buster the rabbit scout. Buster was also sitting in Uncle Wiggily's bungalow. Buster wasn't playing with a doll. The rabbit scout was tossing his baseball up and catching it when it dropped down. "What is the surprise for Priscilla, Bunty?" asked Buster. He looked at the orphan rabbit who was rocking her doll in a little cradle. This time Buster forgot to watch the ball he had tossed up so he didn't grab it in his paws when the ball came down. The ball banged on the floor with a loud noise.

"Never you mind, Buster Longears, what surprise Priscilla is going to have," answered Bunty. "And please be more careful with your baseball. You nearly let it bang on Priscilla's nose!"

"I didn't mean to do it," said Buster, kindly. "Please excuse me."

"I will this time but not next time," answered Bunty. Then she sang again. "Sleep, my baby, sleep. Do not do not weep. Don't let tears come from your eyes. Then you'll have a grand surprise."

"Don't be silly!" taunted Buster. "Your doll Priscilla can't cry. She can't make tears come out of her eyes."

"She can so!" exclaimed Bunty.

"She can not!" declared Buster.

"Well, I'll show you!" said Bunty. Then to her doll in the cradle she said, "Wake up, Priscilla doodleums and show Buster how you can cry."

All of a sudden, as truly as I am telling you Priscilla began to cry. "Wah! Wah!" as real as anything. And tears dropped from her eyes and rolled down her cheeks.

"There, Buster Longears! What do you think of that?" asked Bunty.

"Pooh! They're not real tears, anyhow!" taunted the rabbit scout. "I know Priscilla can talk and sing when you wind her up, but she can't cry. You just squeezed some water out of a sponge or a rag yourself, to make it look like your doll was crying."

"I did not, Buster Longears! I did not!" Bunty was almost shouting now. Uncle Wiggily hopped in from the breakfast room where he was just finishing his carrot oatmeal.

"What's wrong, Bunty? What's the trouble, Buster?" asked the rabbit gentleman as he twinkled his pink nose at the two bunny children.

"And she can't," declared Buster. "It's just a trick of Bunty's."

"Well, you can hold Priscilla yourself and she will cry for you," declared declared Bunty. "Here, hold her!" She gave the doll to Buster who didn't exactly know how to hold Priscilla. But, all of a sudden, the doll began to cry. "Wah! Wah! Wah!" And from her eyes dropped tears all over Buster's paws.

"I know she couldn't," answered the orphan rabbit. "But as a Christmas gift Santa Claus put in the crying part of Priscilla and also a little rubber bag of water. And when I press a button—like this—Priscilla can cry 'Wah!' and make tears come like this!" Bunty took Priscilla from Buster's paws pressed a button in the doll's back an Priscilla cried again and dropped more water tears.

"That sure is mysterious!" said Buster. "Well, I'm going out and play ball. But what is the grand surprise that you were going to show Priscilla? You sang about it, you know, Bunty."

"I know I did," said the orphan rabbit. "The surprise is —" Bunty looked under the cradle and then, all of a sudden the orphan rabbit began to cry herself. "Boo! Boo! Boo!" sobbed Bunty. "She's gone! She's gone."

In the next story I can tell you why Bunty cried. But I hope the vacuum sweeper doesn't work backward and blow dust into the face of the clock so that it sneezes off its hands.

We have been discussing hands from the recent world's championship match in order to demonstrate the superiority of the natural bidding methods employed by the victorious American team. Here is another deal from the match. When Sweden held the East-West cards, the bidding went:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣
Pass	2 ♦	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	3 ♠	All pass

American players occasionally make use of psychic bids but seldom use the "bid-what you haven't got" style where it seems they have the balance of power. Whether the Swedes were confused by their own bidding or simply underestimated their combined values, they stopped short of game on a hand which point-count suggests is a sound game bid. This proved fortunate when the bad trump break resulted in losing three spade tricks and West was lucky to lose only to the two red aces in addition, barely making his contract, for a plus score of 110.

It looked like a possible swing for Sweden, but at the other table West, Sam Stayman, opened the bidding with one notrump not one spade. Despite a five-card major, our system permits a notrump opening when the high card strength is within precise limits (16 to 18 points) and when the doubleton suit includes at least a king. East, B. J. Becker, raised to three notrump at once.

Since spades had never been mentioned, North opened the spade six. West won and immediately led toward the king of diamonds. When this held, a low diamond was returned and ducked in North's ace. North knocked out East's spade ace, but declarer got back to the diamond queen, winning two more diamonds and another club. The game scored 430 for the United States, a net gain of 320 on the board.

Where on Earth
Did 'Tell It To The Marines' Originate
by TED ATWOOD

"That's a lie!" is a rude rejoinder to a tall tale. It's much safer to suggest that the storyteller simply "tell it to the marines."

This proverbial expression of disbelief was coined in the ranks of the British navy over a century ago. Then, though the marines knew well enough how to fight on land, they were so ignorant of seamanship that they made a very poor showing on the voyage to the fight. Their clumsiness on shipboard led professional seamen to look down on them as an inexperienced and gullible lot who would believe anything, no matter how fantastic.

According to a different story, "Tell it to the marines," was first spoken by King Charles II and was duly and lengthily reported in his Diary by Samuel Pepys. The expression, wrote Pepys, implied, not that the soldier sailors were green, but the very opposite. They had traveled so widely that they were the service branch best qualified to pronounce on the truth of an incredible table. Therefore, to test the truth of a story, one had only to tell it to the marines. If they believed it, it was true.

Avid Pepysian scholars spent years searching the diarist's works, both published and unpublished, for the passage on the marines, but they never found it. Finally, a retired marine colonel "confessed" that he had invented the entire tale. It was nothing but a hoax and should itself have been told only to the marines.

Yet, lest there still be any doubt that the saying really sprang from the inexperience of the marines, the British sailors used to call their rivals "gulpins," a corruption of the word "gullible" which indicated that they would swallow just about anything that was told to them.

KNOTTY PINE and YELLOW BIRCH have been used here to make it one of the smartest kitchens with breakfast space we have ever seen; cabinets, walls, built-in features, wired for range. The clean high basement has an excellent space for an extra room. There is also an economical furnace (just $60 per year) and a DRIVE-IN GARAGE and an automatic hot water heater. At the rear of the house is a PATIO—and garden and the back yard slopes to a RIVER with access to the open SEA. CAN YOU BELIEVE this house is inside the two-mile circle among new homes and is priced below $7,500 cash (or $4,000 cash to mortgage).

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

Spring brings with it the light heart; the heady head but what about your feet? Are they in good shape for spring's new footwear? Prepare to do a little groundwork if you have neglected them or been improperly shod all winter.

Daily footbaths and a weekly pedicure will do much to improve their appearance and well-being. Real problems can be attended to by having your doctor check for trouble or you may find solace at the chiropodist.

Don't try to manage with an inadequate shoe wardrobe. This is one of the first mistakes, be it economy or thoughtlessness. Wearing old shoes or slippers about the house all day soon causes all sorts of trouble and may even result in having your good shoes become uncomfortable because your feet have been permitted to spread.

There's no hiding your footsies in some of spring's naked shoes. Sandals show off almost the entire foot and some of the new peek toes are so wide they expose almost all your toes.

Plan a well-balanced wardrobe for happy feet. Plan basic styles such as the following:

1. Have a pair of all-leather moccasins or walking shoes for long walks or other types of outdoor activity. Uppers and soles should be a supple, flexible leather. These are shoes that are excellent to wear at home also.

2. A pair of spectator shoes in soft leather with a medium heel. These can double for many occasions—work, shopping and even an informal date.

3. Special dress-up shoes with higher heels. Because they are not worn for more than an evening's festivities, they are permissable. Don't wear high heels for daytime!

When you have a variety of heel heights in your wardrobe your leg muscles won't complain when you switch from low to high heels or vice versa.

Cookery Classes Start Soon

The courses will be held from 7.30 to 9.30 each night and will be limited to 40 students. More than half of the quota is already enrolled and others intending to take the course will have to register quickly to make sure of a place.

Your Airline Reports....

Information of interest to Canadians (who all have a share in TCA) based on TCA's Annual Report for the year 1952.

OVER A MILLION PASSENGERS CARRIED IN 1952
STEADY INCREASE IN TCA SERVICES:

	PASSENGERS CARRIED	PASSENGER MILES FLOWN	AIRCARGO AND AIR EXPRESS TON MILES
1942	104,446	57,583,305	217,411
1947	443,782	230,178,216	1,124,780
1952	1,132,518	653,961,415	7,042,427

OVER 18,000 MILES OF "MAPLE LEAF" ROUTES

By the close of 1952 TCA Skyliners were serving 9,916 miles of routes in Canada and the United States, and 8,999 miles overseas.

FLYING THE MAIL

TCA carried regular first-class mail on Canadian routes where the use of air transport ensured more rapid delivery. As a result, Canada has one of the fastest postal delivery services in the world.

DOLLARS and CENTS in 1952

Operating Revenues	$55,057,708
Operating Expenses	52,744,741
Operating Income	$ 2,312,967
Non-operating Income — Net	444,912
	$ 2,757,879
Interest on Capital Invested	750,000
Income	$ 2,007,879
Provision for Income Tax	1,200,000
Net Income	$ 807,879

It is interesting to note that TCA again operated at a profit in 1952, even in the face of higher operating expenses — notably an increase of $5,000,000 in payroll, and the payment for the first time of federal income taxes, amounting to $1,200,000.

NEW EQUIPMENT . . . As part of its program of continuing development in the service of Canadians, TCA has purchased eight Super Constellations and 15 "turbine-propeller" Vickers Viscounts at a cost of over $30,000,000. On this a substantial down payment of nearly $6,000,000 has already been made out of 1952 income. These new aircraft are scheduled to go into service next year. Combined with the airline's present flight equipment, they will constitute one of the most modern and balanced fleets of commercial air transports in the world.

NO NEW CAPITAL . . . With all the great and continuing expansion of services, it is noteworthy that, for the fourth year in succession, the Company was able to carry on its business without the introduction of new capital.

DOLLARS AND SENSE . . . Canada, with its limited population and vast distances, must plan its air progress with the challenge of Canadian conditions in mind. As G. R. McGregor, President of TCA, pointed out in the Annual Report:

"... the future of Canadian air transportation, growing within the framework of a flourishing economy, must be regarded with confidence. It is, of course, necessary that development be guided by due regard for qualitative standards and economic reality. These conditions TCA will endeavour to observe."

TCA recognizes this need for sound planning and efficient operation. The record shows the results:

- an orderly development on a sound and sensible basis
- a steady emergence from red to black with a small profit
- an unsurpassed record of year 'round reliability in operations
- no increase in the cost of air travel for TCA passengers since April 1, 1947
- a planned program of expansion to meet the increasing air travel needs of Canadians.

That policy is being continued today, for the future. New aircraft are being added to the TCA fleet; more personnel being trained, new service improvements effected; all to make sure that ever-growing numbers of Canadians will continue to be served by — modern dependable air travel, all year 'round

Fascist Legislation Predicted

IWA Man Sees Grave Labor Period

DUNCAN Carl Winn international secretary of the IWA, on Sunday warned one of the largest annual meetings ever held in Duncan, that the Canadian labor movement faces a grave period and a threat from Fascist legislation of the type of the Taft Hartley law.

Mr. Winn said the conference being held in Washington now on the Taft-Hartley law is not [illegible] to trade unions, but to make it more restrictive and obnuxious."

The government in the United States is not friendly to labor, Mr. Winn said.

Turning to the Canadian picture, Mr. Winn said that the threat to freedom of the trade union movement in Canada is pointed by the thinking and teaching of Professor J A Cameron of Queens University.

"Professor Cameron is representative of a type of thinking which is opposed to the free trade union movement," Mr. Winn said

"There is danger in Canada, as in the States, of laws which could completely outlaw freedom to strike, by using the power of the injunction. Then we would only have industrial relations at the whim of a judge who could say, 'You cannot strike, you must negotiate.'

"There must be freedom, not restriction, in the trade union movement,' he said. "I thoroughly, violently and bitterly disagree with anybody who believes there should be labor restrictions such as the Taft-Hartley law It is Fascist legislation."

There was strong criticism of the B.C government in the annual report of the officers. "For the first time within the knowledge of most of us," the report states, "our province is ruled by a minority government and its actions have been followed with much concern by a great many of our membership.

"This government has made no effort to introduce into the legislature those necessary changes to the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act, the Workmen's Compensation Act, the B.C. Hospital Insurance Act, and other pieces of labor and social legislation to which the [illegible] been clamoring for amendments in order to make them more effective in carrying out their original intentions"

The Duncan local is the third largest in the province, and maintained a level of membership of approximately 4,500 a month in the past year

Joseph Morris, president, who has led Local 1-80 since the break from Communist-dominated control, will not be a candidate for re-election to any local office this year as he is on the slate for election to the district presidency in opposition to Stewart Alsbury.

Tony Poje whose appeal from a fine of $3,000 and three months in jail is now before the Supreme Court of Canada, will contest the local election with George Smythe.

For first vice-president Ernest Boulet will oppose Stanley Abercrombie. For second vice-president [illegible] Anderson will run, and for third vice-president, Lorne Johnson will oppose Frank Telford. Financial secretary, Edwin Linder, recording secretary, Lawrence Jones. Warden, Max Salter and Peter Wilkes; three-year trustee, J. Colwell and W Tickson, and for district board member, Bert Schofield. There was so much competition for a number of delegations in trade union bodies that the selection of delegates took three hours.

Clues Lead To Topper Of Premier

Return of Premier W A C. Bennett's top hat, missing since the government reception on February 6, was accomplished yesterday at the end of a trail of "clues" spread over the city like a children's paper chase [illegible] discovered the missing hat in an unclaimed locker which was opened after 24 hours.

Whoever had taken the premier's topper had evidently laid a trail of clues ending at the CPR locker. The wharf baggage agent realized, on opening the locker after the 24-hour time limit, that the hat inside was Mr Bennett's from the initials in it. He telephoned the premier's office and it was retrieved.

Nylon-Mending Firm Starts Here

A new industry has been started in Victoria by an international group whose members seem able to keep its signals straight even though they speak different languages.

Five girls are already at work mending nylons and the owners of the business, J. Hinskens, G. Polz and Emil Salomon, are aiming at a staff of 100.

As soon as proper premises are located the new business will [illegible] Stocking Company. Plans for a mail order department are under way and the company will eventually service all Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland

French, German, Dutch, and English are all standard languages in the tiny factory, where girls are learning to mend hosiery with air-driven machines imported from Europe

The machines, which look like a household cake mixer, are capable of making 2,500 stitches a minute No trace of the mending shows in the finished nylons.

Emil Salomon, who runs the plant, came to Victoria less than four months ago Canada proved to be truly the land of opportunity to a man with the knowledge to exploit it and the courage to start from nothing.

He trained five girls - French, Latvian, German and Canadian - and he was in business.

Harry G. Mills Prospect Lake, will take the witness stand in his own defense today in his Assize Court trial on a manslaughter charge.

"I tried to put on the headlights. They wouldn't work for me," Veach said.

Mrs. Mary V. Heighes, Simon Road, a pedestrian going north on Blenkinsop Road, said three cars passed her traveling north. She described the last one as that involved in the accident and going about 25 miles an hour.

Truck involved in the accident was entered as an exhibit by Crown Prosecutor J. A. Byers and viewed by the jury during the afternoon.

Mr Justice J. V. Clyne had commented earlier in the day and repeated himself on the prosecutor's announced intentions.

"I don't like this practice of putting trucks in as exhibits. When a jury retires members should have all exhibits with them."

Robert Gordon Gregory-Allen, driver of the truck involved, testified that he left the machine on Blenkinsop because it had stalled. He pulled it off the road as far as he could.

The case is to go before the jury today.

Brighter Future Seen For Boy, 4 and Sister, 2

Father and Friend Protect Children!

Last winter, a young father told a Confederation Man, "Fred, you know how much is left of my $5,000 income after payments on my house ... food and clothing bills ... and all the other expenses. How much protection can I afford for my family?"

"A lot more than you think, Jim," replied the Confederation Man. "We have a plan that, on your salary, will provide for your family $10,000 in cash at death ... and $100 every month until your daughter is 21. Then, they'll receive another $10,000. In the event of death after your daughter is 21 the plan provides $20,000 in cash. That's enough to provide a brighter future!" That's how a Confederation Life Man helped one father protect his family. He can help you too!
